JOHN DILLINGER THOUGHT LEADER IN GRANT HOLDUP

Gang Invades Montgomery Bank, Seizes Cash, Flees In Auto

MACHINE GUN IS USED

Official Says Features Of Bandit Similar To Desperado's

SHREVEPORT, La., April 18.—(AP)—The Bank of Montgomery, in Grant parish, 85 miles south of Shreveport, was robbed by an armed band this morning and the bank president expressed the opinion that the gang was led by John Dillinger, notorious outlaw.

The gang invaded the bank at 9:30 a. m. armed with a machine gun, seized cash and fled in a car, heading north toward Shreveport.

L. D. Wardlaw, president of the bank, advised local authorities that the bandits were led by a man whose features tallied with those of Dillinger, whose picture was hanging on the wall of the bank at the time of the robbery.

Wardlaw said the amount of loot seized was not immediately determined.

"If he was not Dillinger he was a living image of him," Mr. Wardlaw declared. "We have a picture of Dillinger hanging in the bank. However, the man did not notice it."

The bandit said to resemble Dillinger appeared in the bank first with a machine gun concealed under his coat. As he entered he threw his coat back and then drew the weapon, ordering all inside to raise their hands. At this juncture the two other bandits came in. A negro customer, John Gaines, was standing in the bank, when the two entered.

"We are going to take you with us when we leave," one of the robbers said to the negro. However, they left without molesting anyone.

Inside the bank, besides Wardlaw and the negro, were Mrs. Wardlaw and G. R. Bates, teller.

"The man was very polite," Wardlaw said.

The leader took the money from the cash drawer and from a safe which was unlocked. Mr. Wardlaw said that until a check was made he could not ascertain the amount of money taken. He added that no great amount of cash was on hand.

One of the bandits warned Bates against looking at him too close and made him turn his head. Wardlaw said he, however, looked particularly at the leader very closely.

The bandits were driving a small car, which sped out of town north toward Shreveport.

Only the leader of the trio carried a machine gun. The other two were armed with revolvers.

The sheriff's office at Colfax was immediately notified.

Hamilton Thought To Be In Chicago

DALLAS, Texas, April 18.—(AP)—The belief that Raymond Hamilton, escaped convict and gunman wanted for bank robbery and other crimes, had removed himself from within easy reach of Texas officers and may evade the law until he gets into more trouble was strengthened today by receipt of a letter from a New Orleans detective.

The letter, sent to Deputy Sheriff Bud Walker, said Hamilton, former desperado of the notorious Barrow gang, had boarded a train in New Orleans the night of April 6 and traveled straight to Chicago. That same day he wrote a letter to Albert Baskett, Dallas attorney, saying he had severed relations with Clyde Barrow and was innocent of the killing of two Texas highway patrolmen near Grapevine.

The New Orleans detective said he followed the trail of Hamilton to Chicago. A Pullman conductor, in charge

Jes' Ramblin'
ABOUT THE TOWN

Planned economy in his garden has made it possible for a Sherrouse addition resident to produce radishes this year at a cost of a little less than 25 cents apiece, a price which he considers reasonable. Which reminds us of a story that used to be told of former Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois. Governor Lowden maintains a farm, or rather a farming estate, in Illinois. Once he was entertaining a large party of prominent politicians and business executives. As they assembled on the spacious porches of the palatial farmhouse, the governor admonished them: "Here's champagne, gentlemen, and here's buttermilk. Help yourselves to either. They both cost me the same."

"When big heads get together"—not referring of course to the Roosevelitian "brain trust"—might be an apt term for the gathering of three men at a certain downtown newsstand the other day. Each thought he had an unusually large head and told of the difficulty experienced by him in buying hats. Then all three discovered that each of the others also wore an over-sized chapeau. J. D. Porter and J. H. Sutton were two of the men who wear size seven and a half or larger in cranial adornment, and the other said it might hurt his social prestige to let it be known that he has the "big head."

We often wonder how many times the real John Dillinger has been picked up and released as merely "another guy that looked like Dillinger." Well, all we've got to say is, he'd better not run that risk around here.

A tourist printer climbed the stairs to the editorial department the other day. We had thought tourist printers had become extinct, but probably not. Anyway this one carried a suitcase, which he slammed down on the floor with the remark: "You didn't know the wardrobe I carry round in that thing consists of fifty-four pieces, did you?—a deck of cards and a pair of socks."

"THE BANK OF MONROE" . . . so reads old and rarely noticed letterings on the rear of the Western Union building overlooking the Ouachita river. Painted over to blend into the color of the building, the raised letters still stand out as a reminder of Monroe's younger days when Grand street was the business center of the city.

WISCONSIN SHOPS ACTIVE; STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK

Automobile And Body Plants Reopen At Kenosha And Racine

4,700 MEN AFFECTED

Wages Increased In Agreement Brought About By Board

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 18.—(AP)—Production machinery began humming again today in three plants that were forced to close in February and March by a strike of 4,700 workmen.

Simultaneous reopening of the Kenosha and Racine plants of the Nash Motor company and of the Seaman Body corporation in Milwaukee was made possible by removal yesterday of the last stumbling block to settlement, although the walkouts did not occur at the same time, it was agreed that the strike would not be called off until each group was satisfied.

The strike originated in the Nash plant at Racine where 1,100 workers laid down their tools February 21. Five days later, 1,400 employes of the Seaman company struck. The Kenosha walkout of another 2,200 workmen followed on March 1. Although the Nash plants closed immediately, the Seaman shops were not completely shut down until April 2.

A program outlined by the federal automobile labor board at Racine two weeks ago was the basis of settlement. The original offer, accepted at Racine, provided for a general ten per cent wage increase, recognition of collective bargaining committees, seniority rights, and rehiring of strikers without discrimination.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Karl A. Crowley, solicitor of the postoffice department today characterized the airmail suits against Postmaster General Farley as "a weak effort to evade the law which says that the United States government cannot be sued without its consent."

Four aviation companies whose airmail contracts were cancelled today asked the District of Columbia supreme court to enjoin James A. Farley from enforcing the cancellation order and to award them damages.

The exact amount of the damages sought was not specified. Attorneys said the companies had not yet been able to calculate their losses. The companies were Boeing Air Transport, Inc., National Air Transport,

Police Jury Association Considers New Subjects

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(AP)—The Police Jury association of Louisiana plunged into new subjects today after adopting resolutions recommending changes in state policies.

The resolutions called for segregation of school funds, levying of a sales tax, safeguarding of "local option" in liquor control, giving half the severance tax to the parish where collected, and giving local assessors full assessment discretion without supervision by the Louisiana Tax commission.

The body took no action on proposed endorsements of the Louisiana Tax Reform commission's legislative tax relief recommendations or upon proposed enactment of a uniform state driver's license law.

FINANCIAL LEADERS FACE TRIAL

Three Cleveland citizens, long prominent in the nation's financial world—O. P. Van Sweringen (left), Joseph R. Nutt (upper right), and W. M. Baldwin (lower right)—face trial on charges that they falsified records and reports of the closed Union Trust company of Cleveland. They pleaded not guilty. Van Sweringen, well known rail executive, is accused of aiding and abetting Baldwin and Nutt, who are former executives of the bank. (Associated Press Photo).

PERJURY CHARGES ARE THREATENING IN WIRT INQUIRY

Democrat Says He Will Demand Probe By District Attorney

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—The possibility of perjury charges jutted today from the house investigation of Dr. William A. Wirt's charges of revolutionary talk within the "brain trust."

Representative Somers, Democrat, New York, said he would insist on an inquiry by District Attorney Leslie Garnett to determine "if there is any question of perjury involved" in testimony given before the Wirt investigating committee.

Six witnesses flatly denied before the committee yesterday that they had talked of revolution at a dinner party at which Dr. Wirt also was a guest.

Without further testimony, Democratic members of the committee were ready to end their investigation late today and bring in a "no revolution" verdict. But the Republican minority on the committee—McGugin of Kansas and Lehlbach of New Jersey—held out for testimony by higher government officials, including Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture.

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, joined Somers in the demand for an investigation by the district attorney, asserting that persons who talk as Dr. Wirt did before the house committee should be prosecuted.

The committee chairman, Bulwinkle,

Subpoenas Are Issued For Letters, Speeches

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—At the request of the defense in the trial of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., subpoenas were issued today for letters and speeches made by Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, demanding that the southern Methodist churchman be prosecuted.

Tinkham was the first to say publicly that Bishop Cannon had not reported all the contributions he received in 1928 to oppose the presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith.

The bishop and Miss Ada L. Burroughs are on trial in District of Columbia supreme court on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal corrupt practices act by failure to report to the clerk of the house all of $65,300 received from Edwin C. Jameson, New York insurance executive.

Tinkham made his assertion on the floor of the house and later repeated them outside after a challenge from Cannon. The bishop sued for $500,000.

No Statement Forthcoming As To Probability Of Runoff

NEW ORLEANS, April 18.—(AP)—The New Orleans States today said Murphy Sylvest, one of the candidates in the sixth district congressional race, had telegraphed his congratulations to J. Y. Sanders, Jr., and had offered his assistance in the event of a run-off campaign.

Sanders Lacks Only 52 Votes Of Majority

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(AP)—With eleven precincts missing, State Senator J. Y. Sanders, Jr., anti-Long campaigner, lacked only 52 votes for a clear nominating majority over four opponents, tabulations from yesterday's sixth district congressional election showed today.

On returns from 191 of the 202 precincts, Sanders' total was 14,717. His nearest opponent was State Commissioner of Agriculture Harry D. Wilson, who had a total of 12,705. Other candidates were John S. Nelson, 613; Murphy J. Sylvest 1,221; and E. M. Whitman 230.

The precincts still out were two in Livingston, one in St. Tammany, one in Ascension and seven in Tagipahoa.

Washington Parish Hikes Sanders' Total

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(AP)—Complete returns from Washington parish today further increased J. Y. Sanders, Jr.'s grand total in the sixth district race for congress, although Harry D. Wilson actually led in the parish vote.

With Washington in and 16 precincts of the district still missing, Sanders' total was increased to 14,333, Wilson's to 12,546, Nelson's to 471, Sylvest's to 1,205 and Whitman's to 227.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—The Bankhead cotton bill was at the White House today for the assured touch of a presidential pen to start the government's first venture into compulsory control of a major industry.

Congress stamped its acceptance across the measure yesterday when the house approved the conference report.

The purpose is to raise and stabilize cotton prices and slash a heavy surplus by compelling farmers to hold their production to 10,000,000 bales for the 1934-35 season.

Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, co-author, calls the measure a "new land mark in agricultural legislation." President Roosevelt favors its principle. And the senator says 95

Senate Debates Sugar Control Bill Wednesday

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—The senate today debated the Jones-Costigan sugar control bill after displacing the airmail measure temporarily.

The legislation, already passed by the house, was described by the finance committee in reporting it as having for its primary object the "stabilization of the sugar industry to prevent a threatened collapse of prices which would bring distress to some 80,000 farmers engaged in sugar production in continental United States."

It would make sugar beets and cane basic commodities subject to a processing tax under the agricultural adjustment act.

It established a domestic production quota of 1,550,000 short tons annually for beet sugar and 260,000 tons for cane sugar.

The secretary of agriculture would be authorized to fix import quotas for Cuba and American possessions.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 18.—(Special)—Woman died at Savannah, Ga., aged 123. She had smoked a pipe for 112 years, while cigarette smokers figure they are passing out daily at the ripe old age of 30 and 40. TROTZKY PLOTTED DICTATORSHIP, SO AUTHORITIES SAY

Revelation Of Sensational Plans Are Made At Paris, France

PARIS, April 18.—(AP)—A sensational plot by Leon Trotzky to use the February riots to set up his own dictatorship in France by a Red revolution was revealed in his party organ, authorities disclosed today.

A revolution by "an armed workers' militia" was urged, they said, in a manifesto issued by the exiled former Russian leader after the fatal rioting in the streets of Paris on February 6.

"The two forces have just measured swords," the manifesto said.

"War has begun between them. There is no possible peace, but in a fight to the death. In the street, by force, will be decided the future."

Russian Exile Seeking Haven

BARBIZON, France, April 18.—(AP)—Steely eyed detectives guarded the gates to Leon Trotzky's forest villa today while the bewhiskered little Russian exile burned up the wires in a hunt for a new country to call home.

Apparently, he hoped to be permitted to take residence in Denmark or Switzerland, now that he had been ordered out of France.

There were many rumors. One was that the former Soviet leader's agents were trying to clear the way for him to go to the United States.

French officials let Trotzky know he would be given time to seek some new haven. The guard was established ostensibly to forestall his taking flight without their knowledge.

New light was shed today on the cabinet ruling that Trotzky must quit France, to which he came from Corsica last July, because of his failure "to observe the duties of neutrality to which he took engagement when the hospitality of France was accorded him."

Police revealed that his violation of political neutrality was particularly marked during the month of February when rioting mobs clashed with police with fatal results in Paris and elsewhere.

Trotzky sent emissaries to both Socialist and Communist parties and to certain labor organizations, the police assert, proposing a "monster joint meeting" to prepare for mass action.

It is charged that at the same time

MOBSTERS THWARTED

Recurrence Of Riot Is Not Anticipated After Wild Night

SHREVEPORT, La., April 18.—(AP)—Grand jury consideration of the case of Fred Lockhart, 38, alleged confessed slayer and attacker of 16-year-old Mae Giffin, was ordered today by District Judge Robert Roberts while troops and peace officers maintained an iron guard to prevent possible but not expected recurrence of a riot last night, when a mob stormed the parish jail to seize the accused.

Judge Roberts summoned the grand jury for April 20, at the request of District Attorney J. U. Galloway and Sheriff T. R. Hughes, who said they wanted the punitive machinery of the law to move as rapidly as possible.

The judge also directed the drawing of a petit jury in connection with prosecution.

Troops with fixed bayonets maintained a cordon around Shreveport's courthouse-jail, and reinforced by police and sheriff's officers, kept alert guard against possible but not anticipated re-forming of a howling, vengeance-bent mob that stormed the bastile last night in a vain attempt to seize Lockhart.

Four militia companies, mobilized by Governor Allen's order, patrolled the central city square over which hundreds of men surged in an attempt to smash a way to Lockhart's cell.

Conditions were quiet, however, and few spectators collected. Within the building, though every available officer was garrisoned, heavily armed.

Machine guns, tear gas bombs—every available riot-quelling weapon—was ready for use should the mob, finally repulsed after midnight, seek again to lay hands on the prisoner.

The attack on the massive stone combination court and prison which resulted in several arrests and a number of bruised heads, came after the prisoner, called "the butterfly man" because of his occupation as a vendor of artificial butterflies, was asserted to have admitted cutting to death the Giffin girl, a bride-to-be, and attacking her after luring her from her home.

The confession, it was announced, came when a cellmate said he heard Lockhart moan in his sleep:

"Poor little girl! Oh, God, why did I do it?"

Four men were arrested at 2 a.m. as mob leaders after officers repulsed the attack on the jail. One of the four was clubbed by an officer with a pistol butt. None of the quartet was booked.

Two other men arrested besides Lockhart in connection with the slaying of the Giffin girl, E. J. Jackson, 41, and J. A. Conroy, 45, both of Shreveport, were to be released.

Lockhart denied that he was the Fred Lockhardt, also known as "D. B. Napier," who escaped from a Georgia prison camp August 19, 1931, while serving a life term for criminal attack.

He said he had been arrested in Monroe, La., last year and "in a little Florida town" as the Georgia fugitive, but was released, he asserted, after fingerprint check.

His description fitted that of the Georgia fugitive in some respects, however, particularly a heart and dagger tatoo on his left forearm.

Scrapping Of Disarmament Negotiations Threatened

PARIS, April 18. — (AP)—France threatens in a note to Great Britain to scrap all current disarmament negotiations unless she is given something equivalent to the military alliance in the old Entente Cordiale, it was revealed today.

The threat is expressed in a memorandum drafted by Premier Gaston Doumergue and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou.

It supplements a previous note in which France expressed a desire for a new arms "limitation conference," on the thesis that present negotiations have failed.

The note frankly says it is "useless" to argue about conditions until the full truth of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's rearmament program in Germany is determined.

Germany's "own revelations" of rearming, the note says, make it impossible to continue discussion of an arms convention based on the idea of German moderation in rearmament.

These revelations are Hitler's assertions and new German budget figures which the French think prove Germany is rearming far beyond general belief, it is added.

France's strong stand was taken yesterday in a heated cabinet session, but the full import of the note was not immediately disclosed.

Barthou, who sought to prevent French isolation, feared as a result of a positive stand, threatened to resign in the course of the turbulent meeting.

Premier Doumergue told the foreign minister it was his duty to remain and other members of the cabinet finally induced Barthou to accept the view that French safety demands an immediate showdown on Germany's arms.

Company G, Monroe, Called To Shreveport After Riot

Called into action to assist in quelling a mob at Shreveport which threatened to storm the Caddo parish jail for the purpose of lynching Fred Lockhart, who confessed attacking and killing Miss Mae Giffin, members of company G, second battalion, 156th infantry, Louisiana national guards, commanded by Captain Louis F. Rolleigh, left Monroe about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. According to dispatches received from Shreveport, local officers had succeeded in partly dispersing the mob before the military units arrived, but they were kept on duty in case another attempt should be made to break into the jail.

Four national guard companies, constituting the entire second battalion were called into action at Shreveport. These companies were company G of Monroe; company F of Ruston, commanded by Captain W. E. McBride; company H of Minden, commanded by Captain Robert F. Kennon, and company E of Shreveport commanded by Captain Harry Stahl. The Minden company is a machine gun company. The second battalion is commanded by Major Walter Randall of Shreveport.

This makes the sixth time within the last 12 years that members of the Monroe company have been called into action. In 1922 they were called to Harrisonburg for duty during a flood disaster.

In the same year they were called to Mer Rouge to do guard duty in connection with the tense situation which arose out of Ku Klux Klan activities, after portions of bodies of two men alleged to have been ground up in rock crushers were found.

Several years later they were called to Coushatta during the trial of a negro for the killing of a white man, when it was feared the negro might be lynched.

In 1927 the company was called out for flood duty in northeast Louisiana and it was called out again for similar duty during the flood of 1931.

Sanders Far Ahead Of All His Opponents

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(AP)—Returns from 22 missing precincts in yesterday's sixth district primary to nominate a successor to the late Representative Bolivar E. Kemp will determine whether a second primary will be necessary to decide the race between State Senator J. Y. Sanders, Jr., anti-jury Long candidate and Harry D. Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture, the two high men respectively.

The unofficial count from 180 of the 202 precincts in the district gave Sanders a lead of 1,760 votes over Wilson, but Sanders lacked 31 votes of having a majority of those cast for the five candidates, indicating that a run-off primary must be held unless one of the top get a majority in the precincts to report.

The 180 precincts gave Sanders 14,276 votes and Wilson 12,516. The total number of votes reported in these precincts was 28,612 out of an estimated 35,000 registrations of eligible voters in the district and the bare majority to nominate on this count would be 14,307.

Murphy J. Sylvest, of Franklinton, former state representative, was third on these returns with 1,136 votes; John S. Nelson, of Doyle, clerk of court of Livingston parish, was fourth with 465 and E. M. Whitman, of Amite, fifth with 219.

Sanders carried his home parish of East Baton Rouge by 2,006 votes. On the face of incomplete returns from Tangipahoa parish, the home parish of Mr. Wilson, Mr. Sanders was leading by more than 400 votes. He carried Amite, home town of Wilson by five votes. Wilson was leading Sanders by approximately 500 votes in Washington parish and 300 in Ascension on the face of incomplete returns while he had a lead of 1,000 over Sanders in St. Tammany parish with only one precinct missing.

Although Senator Long took no part publicly in the primary campaign as he did in a riotous special election called by Governor O. K. Allen last December, Sanders charged that Long's organization was actively backing Wilson, but Wilson denied this and maintained that he was an independent.

All three of the other candidates styled themselves as independents or non-factional candidates.

In the December election the parish Democratic committee with the support of the Long and Allen administration nominated Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, of Amite, widow of the late representative, as the "unopposed Democratic nominee" without a primary and elected her in the surprise move on December 5.

Voters opposing the move which blocked the holding of a primary called another election of mass meeting on Dec. 27 and Sanders as the only candidate who qualified in that election was elected on an anti-Long platform.

Neither was seated in Washington as the house of representative held both elections illegal and the governor later set the April primary. Mrs. Kemp did not offer in the primary.

In a midnight statement Henry N. Sherburne, campaign manager of Mr. Sanders, issued the following statement:

"The returns speak for themselves. Mr. Sanders probably is nominated in the first primary; but if not, a second primary is so remote as to be practically impossible. We will have another statement to make to the voters when the returns are all in."

Mr. Wilson could not be reached early today for a statement.

home loan bond guarantee goes to the White House.

As reported by Smith, the new plan would allow construction loans up to 80 per cent of the value of the mortgaged property and run for 20 years at five per cent.

Home modernization loans would bear the same interest, be limited to a $200 minimum and $2,000 maximum, for repayment over 10 years on monthly or quarterly bases.

The plan embraces a "Federal Mutual Mortgage Insurance corporation" to insure mortgages covering the property on which loans would be made by the federal associations.

The latter would have $5,000,000 federal capital each, with power to issue bonds up to 15 times the capital, all bonds to be covered by the insurance corporation. The Home Loan bank board would charter the associations.

storming mob of thousands of angry men last night made repeated but unsuccessful attempts to wrest from the parish jail on the seventh floor, Fred Lockhart, 38, an artificial butterly salesman who confessed to attacking and slaying Mae Giffin, 16-year-old Shreveport girl.

Small crowds and groups of men about the jail early last night became unmanageable after Sheriff T. R. Hughes, of Caddo parish, announced that Lockhart had confessed to luring the young woman away from the home of her mother, Mrs. Maggie Peters, a widow, and slaying her.

The crowd grew rapidly into a throng estimated in number from 3,000 to 5,000 led by several hundred shouting and cursing members who took possession of the basement and first floor of the courthouse, threw bricks, wielded clubs and cut fire hose until the national guard from Shreveport began assembling in the basement of the courthouse after midnight.

By two o'clock the rioters inside the building had been driven to the outside and the general howling mass began breaking up.

Under orders from Gov. O. K. Allen, Colonel Hollingsworth Barrett, commanding company E, 156th infantry of Shreveport, took command of the situation, releasing the tension that had existed in the siege laid against some three score parish officers, city police and special deputies who commanded the stairway leading to the second floor with machine guns, pistols and tear bombs.

A company of militia from Minden, La., and others from Ruston and Monroe were ordered to his assistance. Tear gas bombs were set off throughout the night to drive back the invaders in their mass assaults. The supply of bombs was replenished periodically from the army supplies at Barksdale field here.

As the crowd outside the courthouse milled about in disorder early in the night they were whipped into a furious assault on the courthouse entrances by two girls mounted on a truck who challenged that "you men are a bunch of dirty yellow cowards" if they did not seize the prisoner from the jail.

Several hundred of the leaders rushed the basement and the main floor, smashing windows of the beautiful building with bricks, yelling at the top of their voices, "we want to get him. We want to lynch him. Let us through."

Officers first received a committee from the mob in the sheriff's office and "cooled them down in the hold-over," said a special deputy sheriff in the jail, but entreaties had no effect on dampening the fury of the leaders.

A crowd broke into the first floor with a heavy railroad rail, but policemen headed by D. D. Bazer, chief of police, staged a fist fight with the rail bearers and made them drop the rail.

Four or five members of the mob were reported by the officers to have climbed to the third and fourth floor from the outside of the building, which placed them above the heavy steel gate locking the jail section, but officers stationed above quickly ejected them from the building.

Deputies sheriff, police and 40 or 50 special deputies held the throng back from the stairway with threats to shoot to kill.

The elevator was run to an upper story and locked while the disturbance raged.

With tear gas bombs still being set off early today as remnants of the original mob still milled about the courthouse outside of the building, officers expected the national guard to control the situation without further difficulty unless the crowd was augmented by groups from the country.

Sheriff Hughes reported early last night that Lockhart had confessed to slaying the girl last Thursday after obtaining her mother's consent for her to attend his ill wife. The body was found Sunday in a wooded section near Cross lake on the outskirts of the city and was mutilated from stab wounds.

Worn and haggard from two days of questioning, Lockhart was quoted by Sheriff Hughes in his confession as admitting, "I did it." "God knows why I did it," the statement said. "I guess it was the old devil creeping out. All I want is a square deal."

"I told her my wife was on the edge of the lake fishing and that we should go in and sit down," the statement said. "We sat down on the ground and I put my arm around her. She struck at me and then I pulled out my knife and stabbed her in the side. She fainted and it was then I attacked her."

The statement said the girl never regained consciousness before her death.

No shots were fired during the mob action, but there were several arrests made and at least one man, yet unidentified, seriously injured. He was hurt during a fight over the cutting of a fireman's hose.

Lockhart Denies Slaying Of Youth

According to Shreveport news dispatches, Mrs. Armor Anderson, 42, who for the last three years has been living with Fred Lockhart, confessed slayer of Miss Mae Giffin, 16-year-old Shreveport girl, is the mother of a youth whose body was found on the Jonesville-Ferriday highway, near a baseball park, on the morning of last November 26. The News-Star—World's Ferriday correspondent said Wednesday that the body was held for 15 days without being identified and finally was buried in a lot in the Natchez cemetery.

Mrs. Anderson is quoted in Shreveport dispatches as saying her 18-year-old son, Ligon Jackson, was murdered last fall near Ferriday and that the slayer was never apprehended. Mrs. Anderson was married twice, her first husband, Mr. Jackson, having died 18 years ago. Lockhart was using the name of "Jackson" when he lured Miss Giffin to a lonely spot near Shreveport, according to his confession, and attacked and murdered her.

Lockhart is said to have denied that he killed Ligon Jackson, whom he referred to as his step-son. Officers, however, are expected to check up on his probable connection with the slaying, as the youth and girl were killed in a similar manner.

After the body of the youth was found near Ferriday by three negro women who were picking pecans a search was started for a man who had been seen in company with the young man at a sawmill, where both were said to have applied for work. The man was described as appearing to be about 50 years old, as was Lockhart prior to his arrest, although his age has since been given as 38.

When the body was found the youth had been dead 12 hours or more. He had been struck on the head with an instrument of some sort and then his throat had been cut. According to Lockhart's story at Shreveport, he cut Miss Giffin's throat while she was unconscious, after he had stabbed her in the side.

'Jo' Shows Amy A 'Villain' Technique

The electric personality of Katharine Hepburn brings her to great heights of stardom in Louisa M. Alcott's great story of home, "Little Women" playing at the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday. Jo, Beth, Amy and Meg, the four little women of this immortal classic are portrayed by Katharine Hepburn, Jean Parker, Joan Bennett and Frances Dee.

Tarver Will Assist In Giving Lockhart Record

On the request of Shreveport authorities, L. V. Tarver, superintendent of Monroe police, left here Wednesday for Shreveport to assist in investigating the record of Fred Lockhart, confessed attacker and slayer of Miss Mae Giffin. Mr. Tarver took with him a file showing records of Lockhart's activities in Monroe.

It was stated at police headquarters here that Lockhart was arrested by local police several months ago on the request of Georgia authorities, who had sent out word that they wanted him on a charge of criminal assault. The man was held in jail here about two weeks, but was released when Georgia authorities failed to come for him, after they had been notified.

Fred Lockhardt Escaped From Camp

ATLANTA, April 18.—(AP)—A man named Lockhardt, alias D. B. Napier, escaped from the Murray county highway camp August 19, 1931. He was serving a life sentence for criminal attack, records of the state prison commission show.

The escaped Georgia prisoner was white, 30 years old, six feet tall, weighed 168 pounds and had light hair. His right eye was out, he had a bullet hole below his left knee and his right arm was crooked. A heart and dagger was tatooed on his left forearm and the letters "V and B" were cut in the palm of his left hand.

In pamphlets seized by police Trotzky called the ministry of Premier Gaston Doumergue "new Bonapartes."

of the coach in which Hamilton and a woman companion rode, said the man described by Deputy Sheriff Walker and employes of the Lafayette hotel (where Hamilton was reported to have stayed in New Orleans) left the coach in Chicago and he was positive of his identification.

When Hamilton and the woman registered at the Lafayette hotel the night of April 5, the night clerk observed that Hamilton had a fresh cut across the bridge of his nose. The Pullman conductor remembered the same man. The information would place Hamilton in the Chicago area since April 8. He had not been seen since and all efforts to locate him in the southwest have been in vain.

Outlaw Dies From Wound

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 18.—(AP)—David Stovall, outlaw, known also as E. P. (Slippery) Elmer and Cal Spencer, died of a bullet wound in a hospital here today.

Trapped by deputy sheriffs here last night, Stovall, crawled out of a taxicab with a pistol in his hand and was met by a bullet through the head.

Elmer Green, captured nearby a few minutes later, was said by Deputy Sheriff George Kerr to have confessed that he and Stovall robbed a transcontinental bus near Fort Worth last week.

Juvenile Officer Will Attend State Conference

E. L. Wright, juvenile officer for Ouachita parish, plans to leave Friday at noon for Baton Rouge, where he will attend a meeting of the State Conference of Social Workers. The conference will be in session through Friday and Saturday, with Dr. Harriett Daggett, president, in charge.

One of the principal purposes will be to discuss several proposed changes in the children's code since adoption last fall by the conference. It is hoped that the code can be put into final shape for submission to the state legislature at the next session.

WISCONSIN SHOPS ACTIVE; STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK

brought applause from 300 representatives of industry in the south.

Theodore Swann, chemical manufacturer, told the meeting called to unify southern industry in a fight to maintain the existing wage differential under the NRA, told the meeting of the Southern Industrial council, he was more pessimistic than ever over the industrial outlook and wage situation under the NRA.

"Sherman's march to the sea was no more destructive than the NRA is going to be to the south," he said. "Before it is over we may have secession."

Applause greeted the statement.

Industrialists Gather For Confab

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 18.—(AP)—With 21,000 coal miners idle in the Alabama field, southern industrialists gathered today to discuss the situation that will confront them if the NRA extends its action in wiping out wage differentials for coal mines to other industries.

Alabama commercial coal miners sponsored the meeting, expected to bring representatives to every manufacturing industry in the south here. The coal men state that the elimination of differentials in the coal industry was the "opening wedge" in a campaign by northern industrialists to do away with southern competition.

The 21,000 miners were awaiting action by NRA officials in Washington on the disputed wage differential. Meanwhile, it was estimated by one authority that most of the industries in the district would be forced to stop operating because of lack of fuel if the shutdown continues a week.

In Washington it was understood that President Roosevelt might intervene to compose the situation and coal operators said last night they were confident that if the president took such action their grievances would be settled.

In a wire to Governor B. M. Miller the president has given assurance that NRA action will be taken immediately. It was the opinion of the coal operators that such action was dependent only on the return today of Administrator Johnson from his vacation at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

COTTON MEASURE WAITS SIGNATURE OF U. S. PRESIDENT

per cent of the cotton farmers want it.

Opponents say it swings open the door to regimentation of all agriculture.

Their final ineffective sally against the bill was led yesterday by a southern Democrat, Representative Busby of Mississippi, with the assertion it spelled "irretrievable surrender" of farmers' rights to regulate production.

Restoring the bill virtually to the form in which the house originally passed it, that chamber adopted the conference report 235 to 105. A 50 per cent ad valorem tax on over-quota production is the big stick the measure holds over producers. The tax is to be at least 5 cents a pound.

The bill calls for quotas based on the average production of the last five years and it may be made effective in 1935-36 by presidential proclamation should two-thirds of the land owners, tenants and sharecroppers want the extension.

In a statement explaining provisions of the measure, Senator Bankhead put squarely on the shoulders of cotton growers the responsibility for its success.

"A new land mark in agricultural legislation has been established," he said. "The * * * cotton farmers * * * have been given a law under which they can, if they will, greatly reduce the existing burdensome surplus and also increase and stabilize the price of cotton. The effectiveness of the law as passed depends largely upon the spirit of cooperation manifested by the cotton growers."

The Alabaman suggested that farmers leave unpicked all cotton in excess of their allotments.

"It will be more profitable to leave it in the fields," he said, "than it will be to pick and gin it and pay the tax on it and by doing so reduce the price of all the exempt cotton by increasing the visible supply.

"An organized movement to accomplish that result would be tremendously helpful to all the people in the cotton belt."

Every possible safeguard against bootlegging excess cotton without paying the tax was written into the bill, Bankhead said.

The senator had fought for a 75 per cent tax, and the senate had accepted his plan. House conferees, however, held out for 50 per cent.

"If the tax had been 75 per cent," Bankhead asserted, "the limitation on ginning only 10,000,000 bales would have been automatically effective and, in my opinion, a price increase would have been certain.

"If the production can be held down to 10,000,000 bales the same results will follow and the surplus will be materially reduced."

PERJURY CHARGES ARE THREATENING IN WIRT INQUIRY

Democrat, North Carolina, said the committee could not "prosecute Dr. Wirt for perjury, but there is no reason why the district attorney and the grand jury shouldn't be able to take notice of the case." He added, however, that the committee likely would make no request for an investigation by the district attorney.

The two Republican committeemen argued for calling as witnesses Dr. Tugwell, Dr. Federick C. Howe, farm administration consumers counsel; William I. Westervelt of Chicago, a former farm administration worker, and about half the leading officials of the administration.

PAVING WORKERS ASKED TO FILE

Skilled And Unskilled Concrete Laborers To Be Needed

A request that all concrete workers of the local National Re-Employment service district register with the re-employment bureaus in their respective parishes was made Wednesday by J. W. Worthington, district NRS manager. Mr. Worthington called attention to the fact that a considerable amount of paving work will be done within a short time and that concrete workers will be needed.

Various classes of workers, both white and negroes, will be needed in this work and both skilled and unskilled workers needed will include roller operators, paving machine operators, finishing machine operators, blade operators and form liners and setters.

Mr. Worthington is of the opinion that a large number who have had experience in concrete work have already registered, but that they failed to give their experience on the cards. Those who have had experience of this kind and who did not so specify in registering are asked to re-register and to give their qualifications in full.

Parishes included in the NRS district are Ouachita, Franklin, Caldwell, Richland and Morehouse.

The district manager said he had recently succeded in obtaining work for several concrete laborers at Lake Providence. He expects paving work to start in this parish within a short time. Necessary workers may be obtained from any of the parishes in the district.

W. C. T. U. Branch Will Meet In West Monroe

A meeting of the young people's branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of West Monroe will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in Immanuel Baptist church. Under the direction of Mrs. L. B. McLeod, a membership play will be presented.

Following the business session a social hour will be held and refreshments will be served. All young people interested in this work are requested to attend.

INSECT CONTROL DISCUSSED HERE

Mrs. McQuiller Instructs ERA Field Workers On Insect Destruction

Insect control in vegetable gardens was explained to field workers of the ERA by Mrs. Jewel L. McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, at a meeting held Wednesday morning in the library of the Ouachita parish courthouse.

Mrs. McQuiller, who classified insects into two groups and gave methods of their control, told the field workers that it was essential to observe the gardens at this time as the insects are multiplying so rapidly that they can soon ruin a patch of turnips, mustard or other tender garden vegetation.

The insects were classified as chewing insects and sucking insects. A formula for the destruction of each class was demonstrated.

A formula, known at Dutox, for all chewing insects is composed of one part Dutox and one part of hydrated lime or flour, Mrs. McQuiller said. The mixture should be placed in a covered bucket with a few small stones or a piece of chain and shaken well for about five minutes. Remove the stones or chain and apply the mixture when the dew is on the plants.

Nicotine dust, or spray, for sucking insects, is best when applied in the heat of the day, she said. The dust is prepared by mixing one pound of hydrated lime with an ounce of nicotine sulphate. The mixing process is the same as that for Dutox. However, the dust should be kept in a tightly closed jar until it is ready for use as it quickly loses its strength when exposed to open air, Mrs. McQuiller advised.

The nicotine spray which is a mixture of one gallon of water, one ounce of soap and a teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate, should be used as soon as prepared, she said.

Negro Held For Larceny Of Chickens Wednesday

Arrested early Wednesday morning by Police Officers E. N. LeVasseur and W. G. Banister on a charge of larceny of chickens, Willie Bank, negro, was being held here Wednesday.

Bank, who was said to have stolen two chickens from Mary Miles, negro, 921 Grammont street, and three chickens from Ellen Lucius, negro, 1005 Wood street, was apprehended about 4:15 a.m.

NEGRO OUT ON BOND

George Calhoun, negro, who was arrested early Wednesday morning by Sergeant A. P. Clower and Officer I. L. Causey on a charge of disturbing the peace and using profane language, was released on a $50 property bond.

AIRMAIL SUITS AGAINST FARLEY CALLED EVASION

Inc., Pacific Air Transport and Varney Airlines.

The court gave Farley 20 days to show cause why the injunction should not be granted.

Crowley pointed out that Transcontinental and Western Air's efforts to obtain a similar injunction failed in a New York federal court because it was directed against the government. The federal government cannot be sued without its own consent.

"This is a suit against the United States government," Crowley said, indicating he felt basically the suit was little different from that disposed of in New York.

Attorney General Cummings, he said, would direct the defense.

Meanwhile, senate airmail investigators heard Mark L. Requa, California Republican national committeeman, deny he had volunteered to call former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown "on the carpet" in 1931 in the interest of Century Air Lines. He likewise denied he had sought aid for the company from President Hoover.

Chairman Black, Democrat, Alabama, yesterday read the committee letters which said Requa, a close friend of Hoover, had volunteered his aid to the company in obtaining an opportunity to bid for an airmail contract.

Black today read into the record more communications between officials of the Century Air Line referring to Requa's friendship with former President Hoover.

Requa, in reply, said he did assure Young he would do his best to obtain favorable consideration of the Century company.

Black questioned Requa at length about a conference of Republican national committeemen and others prominent in the party in New York last week, which Requa said he attended.

Requa conceded frankly that the meeting was to discuss "how in hell the national committee was going to pay its debts," and raise money for the coming campaign.

When Black pressed him if those present did not discuss plans for radio publicity in connection with the airmail situation, Requa replied.

"It might have been done."

"I should have been glad to have cooperated in a movement to present our views on the matter."

Others at the meeting, he added, included Charles D. Hilles, George Getz, treasurer of the national committee and Walter F. Brown.

Postal Department To Continue Policy

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Private air companies tossed an injunction monkey-wrench into the government's airmail machinery today.

The postoffice department replied that it would go right ahead with its plans to return the mails to private lines.

Postal officials were taken by surprise when four aviation companies, all subsidiaries of United Aircraft and Transport, Inc., announced the beginning today of injunction actions against Postmaster General Farley.

The proceedings in the District of Columbia supreme court by the Boeing Air Transport, Inc., National Air Transport, Inc., Pacific Air Transport, and Varney Airlines, will be directed against the postmaster general as an individual.

Harllee Branch, second assistant postmaster general in charge of airmail, said:

"From what we can learn, there is nothing in these suits to deter us from receiving the (new) bids and awarding contracts."

William Donovan, counsel for the lines, charged in a resume of his contentions that Farley "arbitrarily and in a manner contrary to law cancelled the contracts of these companies without giving them any notice or opportunity to present the true facts." He said they would seek "damages," but did not name any amount.

Farley had no immediate comment on the decision. Branch, however, said it had been his understanding that the parent United company had planned to reorganize and bid for new temporary contracts.

"If the information we have is correct," Branch said, "all the companies whose contracts were annulled are going ahead with plans to reorganize and bid for the temporary contracts."

Bids which have been solicited by the department are returnable tomorrow for opening Friday noon, with provisions that service is to commence within 30 days after the contracts are awarded.

BUS SERVICE FOR PAPER MILL BEGUN BY F. K. CARHUFF

Operation of bus service between Monroe and Brown Paper mill has been started by F. K. Carhuff, under the name of the Twin City Bus line. Through this bus service, people of Brownville and Ransom addition may ride to Monroe or West Monroe for a nickle.

The bus starts operating at 5:45 a.m., reaching the mill at 6 a.m., and the service is so arranged that trips are made every 30 minutes until 9:30 p.m., with the bus leaving Monroe on the quarter and three-quarter hours. After 9:30 trips are made every hour until the midnight shift leaves and the next trip after midnight is that for the purpose of meeting the 3 a.m. shift at the plant of the Terminal Paper Bag company.

Announcement of the route has been made as follows: From the east side of the bridge on the Monroe side, through West Monroe to Pine street, north on Cypress to Mill, west on Mill to Seventh, south on Seventh to Natchitoches, east on Natchitoches to Fourth, south on Fourth to Coleman and via Ransom addition to the mill.

Alias Brings Grief To Federal Prisoner Here

Man Unknowingly Adopts Name Of Notorious Criminal

"When adopting an alias, beware of the name you select" might be the moral of a story unfolded at the present session of federal court here.

A defendant was haled before the tribunal here several days ago who had given his name as John C. McCall. He was charged with impersonating a federal agent in Lincoln parish, through which means he obtained board and lodging.

After incarceration, investigation disclosed a "John C. McCall" as having an extensive criminal record dating back many years. That is, the real McCall has such a record. But that is getting ahead of the story.

When arraigned at the federal court on the impersonation charge and after being apprised of the fact that his record had been checked back with the disclosure that he was wanted at various places on serious charges, "McCall" confessed that he is not the real McCall.

When he strayed from the narrow path and committed the federal sin and was arrested, "McCall" said he decided to give an assumed name rather than have his family and relatives learn of his transgressions. The alias he selected, "McCall" said, was picked at random.

"McCall" said the Lincoln crime was his first, that he had never been arrested before and had never been fingerprinted.

Federal officials here couldn't quite reconcile "McCall's" statement with the record of the notorious John C. McCall. There must be an error somewhere, they reasoned.

Judge Ben Dawkins referred the case to J. Noble White, federal probation officer, for investigation. Mr. White fingerprinted "McCall" and forwarded the prints and a description of the man to the criminal identification bureau at Washington, D. C.

"McCall" still refuses to give his real name but steadily maintains his innocence of any other crime than that committed in Lincoln parish. He has a brother-in-law who is a city judge in a Texas city, he claims, and the probation officer communicated with the relative, who promised to come here and intercede in "McCall's" behalf.

The notorious McCall is said to have black hair while the "McCall" held here has red hair, the officer said. Neither does the general description of the genuine McCall tally with that of the man held.

The probation officer expects to hear from the Washington bureau soon and then he will be able to make a definite comparison of fingerprints and other information and ascertain if the story told by "McCall" is correct.

STILL DELIVERS WIRES

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 18.—(AP) — Howard Robison, 19-year-old Western Union messenger, was still delivering telegrams on a bicycle today although he has just inherited a $75,000 fortune from his great uncle, P. L. Chapman of Shreveport. Though Howard hopes to take a trip around the world some day, he wants to get a clerk's job with the telegraph company first, he said.

AT THE MOVIES

AT THE PARAMOUNT—Hollywood has never produced a funnier film than "You're Telling Me," the amazingly hilarious comedy which gives W. C. Fields his first starring role for Paramount. It opened yesterday at the Paramount theater, greeted by an enthusiastic audience.

Featured in the supporting cast are Larry "Buster" Crabbe, Joan Marsh, and Adrienne Ames. The picture, from a screen play by Walter de Leon and Paul M. Jones, with dialog by J. P. McEvoy, was directed by Erle Kenton.

In the film, Fields introduces the burlesque golf act which used to stop the show in the Ziegfeld Follies, and it brought loads of laughter yesterday too. Fields depicts a character role, that of a small town optician who spends all of his time puttering around nutty inventions, ranging from a "murder chair" for maltreating tired burglars to a puncture-proof tire.

It isn't until a family crisis arises that he really goes to work to put over an invention—and then, through a series of comedy scenes, he succeeds, and brings happiness to his family. But success doesn't come until the audience has had more than an hour of hard, deep-down laughter.

"You're telling me," closes its engagement today.

AT THE CAPITOL—For a long time an "extra" himself, Charles Farrell, playing the leading role in "The Big Shakedown," the First National picture now showing at the Capitol Theater, was instrumental in sending two extra players to Washington to take part in formulating the new theatrical code under the NRA. He suggested the idea while working on "The Big Shakedown" and two extras in the picture were selected to go. Farrell also dug into his own jeans for most of the expense money.

This is the first time that this great body of motion picture workers has had adequate representation in any conference affecting their welfare.

Besides working as stunt man and extra, young Farrell has also kept up his activities in boxing, tennis and sailing. He needed all the strength and agility these gave him for his strenuous role in "The Big Shakedown," which is a thrilling drama of a new type of racketeering, based on "Cut Rate," a story by S. Engels and Niven Busch.

Others in the cast with Farrell are Bette Davis, Ricardo Cortez, Glenda Farrell, Allen Jenkins, Henry O'Neill and Phillip Faversham. John Francis Dillon directed the picture from a screen story by Niven Busch and Rian James.

Baseball Bat Shatters Love Affair Of Negroes

The case of two negro juveniles, a boy and a girl, who were arrested late Tuesday by Police Officers H. H. Burns and A. L. Cornett on charges of fighting, was turned over to E. L. Wright, probation officer, Wednesday. The girl claimed the youth hit her on the head with a baseball bat.

According to information obtained by police, the girl had been "in love" with the boy, "but don't love him no mo'."

PENNEY STORES NOTE FOUNDING

Concerns Throughout Nation Celebrate Organization's Establishment

All during this month J. C. Penney stores from coast to coast are celebrating the founding of the company 32 years ago in the little mining town of Kemmerer, Wyoming. It was on April 14th, 1902, that an ambitious young man with an idea, invested all his savings in a venture which was to mark the beginning of a new day in retail merchandising. He was J. C. Penney, who has since become known as "the man with a thousand partners."

He had conceived a new idea and a new set of principles for retail store operation. He had the vision to see that there were limitless possibilities in his idea. He was convinced of the soundness of his principles and he had the courage of his convictions. He believed that the time was ripe for putting into action policies he had nurtured in his mind for several years.

He ran the Kemmerer store on the assumption that it was good business to give people the most for their money in quality, service and satisfaction. He sold only for cash because he meant he could sell things more economically. He determined upon a four-point policy in his dealings with the public:

1. To stock dependable, serviceable merchandise only.

2. To sell at the lowest possible prices.

3. To keep store without extravagance.

4. To deal fairly with all customers and co-workers.

The idea which Penney fostered was a co-operative partnership—the idea of having several stores which could buy collectively and hence more advantageously, and of having each store manager an active partner in the business and sharing in the profits.

This idea developed rapidly and by 1910 Mr. Penney had acquired 14 stores. At this time he put into operation a system of centralized buying, bookkeeping, accounting, etc., that is the keystone of the present day organization.

By 1924 the company had opened 500 stores, store number 500 being opened in Hamilton, Missouri, the birthplace of Mr. Penney. Expansion from this point on was much more rapid. In the five years from 1924 to 1928 inclusive the company opened more than 500 new stores, and in the year 1929 alone, nearly as many more were added. Today, 32 years later, there are nearly 1,500 Penney stores located in towns and cities in every state in the nation. In 1933 the company did a total business of more than $178,000,000.

The Monroe store of the Penney company will play a prominent role in this year's anniversary celebration. The store is under the complete supervision of Mr. J. J. Martin, who said today that he anticipated the biggest single month's business in the store's history from the anniversary celebration.

CONFABS STARTED BY PRESIDENT ON U. S. LEGISLATION

which are delaying action on legislation he believes is vital.

In a conference at the White House yesterday Representative McLeod, Republican, Michigan, urged the merits of his bill to pay off depositors in closed banks. When the conference ended, the Michigan congressman was still without the open support of the president on the bill. Strong opposition has developed to the bill among administration officers.

Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, however, left the executive offices confident that some modifications in his bill to make the national labor board permanent and outlaw company-dominated unions would bring passage at this session.

Representative Byrns of Tennessee, house Democratic leader, said the fate of silver legislation hinged directly upon the presidential attitude.

Mr. Roosevelt is keeping a close eye also on the conference between the senate and house over the $480,000,000 revenue bill. His views in working out a compromise probably will be sought and prevail.

Meanwhile, Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, and Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve board, are ready to talk over at the White House a bill providing for five-year loans direct by the Federal Reserve board to "growing industries." They have reached an agreement on this bill and Mr. Roosevelt wants it.

Dog's Life Is Tougher; Can't Even Go Swimming

Leading a dog's life is getting tougher.

Police Wednesday sentenced one dog to be tied-up because he was reported to have a vicious temper, and another was to be confined to his own yard because he had taken a plunge in his neighbors gold fish pond, according to reports at police headquarters.

The dog, which was alleged to be a vicious character, had been at large in the neighborhood of South Grand and Telamaque streets. The dog that liked water lived on Hart street.

Handiest thing in the house

blood will tell—

ONE of the mysteries of life is how much care a man will take of thoroughbred animals—noting when they are "off"... and toning them back to the "pink of condition" to increase their daily usefulness—yet will shamefully neglect his own run-down condition.

Certainly, there is a pardonable pride in an animal's healthy appearance... but human beings are more important than animals. Yet some people just hope when "run-down" that they will "come around."

It is just good "horse-sense" to reflect and reason that your so-called "tired feeling" may come from a lowered red-blood-cell count and the hemo-glo-bin in these cells.

There is a remedy specially designed to bring back strength to weakened blood... and no one can be strong, healthy, happy, and full of vitality when in a run-down condition.

S.S.S. Blood Tonic is a time-tested remedy for restoring deficient red-blood-cells and a low hemo-glo-bin content.

If you suspect an organic disease consult your physician... if you feel weak... lack a keen appetite... if your skin is pale and off-color... try S.S.S. as a part of your regular daily diet. Take it just before meals. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite... your color and skin should improve with increased strength and energy.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on" without exhaustion as you should naturally.

S.S.S. value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal. It is truly a blood and body tonic. You will find it at all drug stores in two convenient sizes... the larger size is more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

"I SELL THEM GASOLINE BUT THEY SOLD ME Plymouth!"

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH VERNON F. KRAUSE OF CHICAGO, ILL.

1. "I wanted a new low-priced car, but I wanted to be sure I got the best. So I decided to let my customers tell me how they liked 'All three.'"

"Talking with Drivers of 'All Three' Convinced me that Plymouth gives the Most for your Money"

WHEN VERNON KRAUSE decided to buy a new car, he didn't have to take any time off to "look at All Three." He stayed right where he was ... in his service station ... and the cars came to him.

"I just stayed right here," Krause says, "keeping my eyes open and listening to owners compare notes."

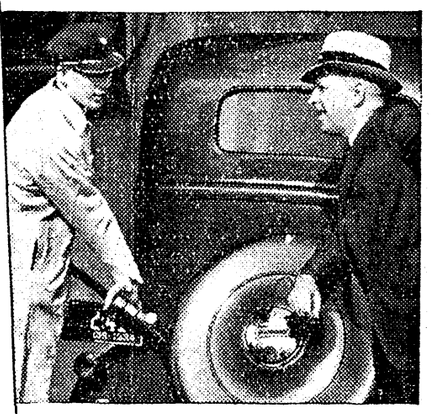
Plymouth won their vote in the low-price field ... hands down. But there wasn't just one reason. There were all kinds of reasons.

Some of his customers said how pleased they were with Hydraulic Brakes. Others boasted of having Safety-Steel Bodies. Many of them mentioned the extra comfort they got from Floating Power engine mountings and Individual Wheel Springing.

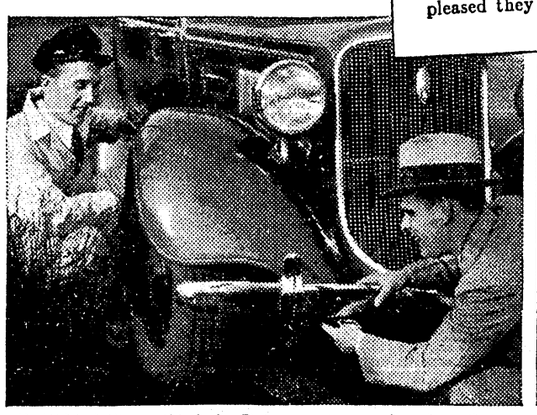
"It all added up to the fact that Plymouth gave the most for the money," says Krause.

"The most for your money." Isn't that exactly what you want in a new car? Then Plymouth is the car for you. It's the only low-priced car with all four of the vital features you need.

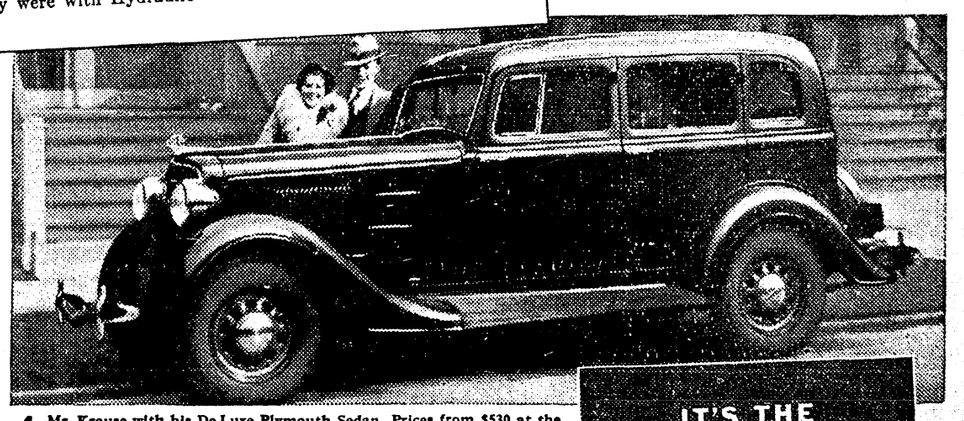
Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer demonstrates Plymouth.



2. "I found that Plymouth owners got more out of the gasoline I sold them. Plymouth drivers all agreed their cars were easy on their pocketbooks."



3. "I liked Plymouth's looks. But my customers showed me there was a lot more to Plymouth than that. They pointed out other features—like Individual Wheel Springing and Hydraulic Brakes."



4. Mr. Krause with his De Luxe Plymouth Sedan. Prices from $530 at the factory, subject to change without notice. Duplate Safety Plate Glass at low extra cost. Time payments on the Chrysler Motors C. C. Co. Plan.

Rewards For Citizenship

The soldier who shoulders a gun and goes out to fight bandits, barbarians, or even so-called invading enemies, does not expect his efforts to bring him immediate financial profit. If he gets off with his life he is grateful. His reason for getting into the fight is to protect his home and his country. In ancient days the soldier had opportunities for material gain as he was permitted to despoil the conquered people and possess himself of the available loot.

The person who is striving for sound governmental conditions, who is fighting corruption, the spoilsmen and all others who would use political position and power to misuse and abuse the public, need not expect any immediate personal financial gain from the conflict. The only way he should enter the battle is from the standpoint of the soldier to protect his home and country.

It is probably safe to say that, during the past two or three years we Americans have lost more of our homes and other possessions through political spoilsmen than we would have lost had we been overrun by the Germans in 1917. Our political enemies right here in our midst have looted us and pillaged us to a far greater extent than would have been done by an intelligent conquering enemy nation. For instance: One city of 50,000 population, in an adjoining state, has as a result of its political enemies and grafters, a debt of $39,000,000. No conquering enemy nation would have dreamed of taking such enormous tribute from that city.

Louisiana's financial prostration at the hands of political overlords is too well known to bear repetition. Patriotic citizens going about their business can make their homes and their business safe by taking the same attitude toward their domestic enemies that soldiers must take toward invading enemies. Both must fight without expectation of immediate financial reward.

When the soldier has helped beat down and conquer the invader, he can return to his home, his family, his work, and carry on in peace and security. And after the citizens, going about their everyday affairs, have joined forces, and put in the necessary time, money and courage in hammering down and overcoming the business and political crooks and grafters working together to pillage the people, they can then know that their homes and their businesses and the future of their children will be comparatively peaceful and secure, provided they continue to keep a vigilant watch for a new crop of political and business crooks and grafters and for the resurrection of the old crop.

Eternal vigilance is the price of everything worth having. If you lie down on the job and quit, you will find yourself overrun with dirt, vermin and political and business scalawags. You won't discover any immediate dollars in your pockets from fighting and preventing and correcting these conditions, but you will get a lot of peace and protection and comfort, and you will prevent having things worth while taken away from you and your family and your posterity.

Greed Costly

The costliness of individual greed to a community is strikingly illustrated in connection with a federal slum-clearance project in a large manufacturing city.

The government was prepared to spend at least $9,000,000 in the work. In addition to improving housing conditions, this would have meant much in wages, a large part of which would have gone into local trade channels.

But as soon as the government's plans became known, the owners of the property that was to be reclaimed saw an opportunity to enrich themselves at the expense of the public treasury. They immediately boosted the price far beyond the generally accepted value of the property. The result may be that the project will not be carried out.

"Owners have let this property deteriorate for years," said a federal official, "and in many instances have neither received any income from it nor kept up taxes. The fact that owners have done nothing would make it appear that they considered the land worth exactly nothing, but now so many of them want speculative prices that the city will lose the expenditure of $9,000,000 unless right prices are found in other places."

The lesson is obvious but not new.

Menace Of Colds

Spring's other annoyances and discomforts could be put up with gracefully were it not for those common ailments of grip and colds which are most prevalent in spring. No matter how often a person has been afflicted with these maladies a new attack lays him low in body and spirit.

Absences from work on account of these common ailments are a severe blow to industry and business. Claims against benefit associations because of influenza or grip make up 20 per cent of the total compensation paid by these associations.

If people could only avoid getting these diseases they would save themselves discomfort, doctors' bills, loss of wages and danger of serious illness. But try as one may, it seems impossible to escape at least one attack a season.

People who get plenty of fresh air, who ventilate their homes thoroughly, who avoid drafts and wet feet, and who are careful to take a good amount of exercise are the ones least afflicted. Fresh air is a wonderful medicine.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

NOBODY IS A GOOD GUESSER

If there were no guesses there would be no lotteries.

If there were no lotteries, some millions of people would not lose the money they put up when they take chances which are so small as to be practically negligible.

When Isaac Newton noticed an apple fall in his father's orchard he did not content himself guessing why it fell down instead of up.

He had at that time no information on that subject.

Probably he asked elder people so many questions about it that they shuddered when they saw him approaching.

No grown up person likes to be asked questions when he doesn't know the answer.

But the Newton boy refused to be satisfied with the explanations that were given to him.

He thought over that problem till at last he concluded that there was some force which controlled the apple's movements.

Today that force, which no man or woman had understood before is being used to do about three-quarters of the really hard physical work that is being performed on this planet, as well as controlling the movement of the planet itself.

Don't guess. Know. Know all that there is to be known.

Ours may not be any more interesting, or so greatly interesting as some of the other planets, but it is the only one upon which this race of ours will ever dwell.

Our job is to find out more about it as we study it.

Don't be contented merely with looking at trees and flowers.

Find out as much about them as you can.

Already, thanks to Newton, you know why water flows down instead of up. Build on that.

Ask yourselves questions and try to answer them.

Questions and answers comprise learning. And if you do not constantly learn you will be of as little value to your fellow dwellers on the earth as is the snow you sweep from the streets after a storm.

Less value indeed, for the snow melts and waters the plants, or joins rivers that turn mill wheels and produce power.

Try to be something more than a guest on the earth.

Nothing brings such self satisfaction as to know that you are doing something, building something, bringing into the world some useful thing that has never been known before.

If you are content with merely living, you are about as much value as the coral insect which, indeed builds palm-shaded islands, but must die before the islands are reared to the edge of the water.

If we could get rid of the loafers and guessers and idlers in the world we would get rid of hatreds and wars.

That will take a lot of energy and team work, but eventually it will be accomplished.

SHOULD YOU FORGET ME

Should you forget me, as you say
Tonight you will (although
I doubt it), these few things will be
A part of you, I know.

That day in springtime when we met,
The picnic's gaiety,
The brook where your cupped hands held high
The wine of life to me;

The summer's beauty, never was
There such a summer yet;
Oh, you will often think of it
In trying to forget.

You will remember, too, this day,
Paths of brown leaves outspread,
Leaves that like us knew shimmering days
Wind loves . . . and now are dead.

OUR PREHISTORIC ANCESTORS

Mr. Bonechisel—That was an awful wallop the dinosaur gave you on the back of the bean. Why didn't you beat it instead of standing still and waiting for another?

Gladys Bonechisel—Oh, dear! I thought it was an admirer come awooing.

TOO EXPENSIVE

Patient—Doctor, I am losing my memory!

Doc—And what is it that you forget?

Patient—Everything but my wife and the price of gasoline! It's awful!

TELLING HIM

Percy (writing on picture postal)—Dear Bill: You ought to be here—please telegraph me $10 to get away.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM

Mrs. Sobbe—Oh, I sent your pongee to the Belgians, dear! It was sadly wrinkled, and two buttons missing—but here's your last year's blue serge—it's all right but for a rip in the coat, and that hole you burnt in the trousers!

JUST BUSINESS

John—I've courted that rich widow for a year.

James—And she won't marry you?

John—Oh, she'll do that. But I only want to sell her some mining stock.

SOUNDS PROBABLE

The Teacher—And how did that fairy story end?

The Kindergartner—They lived happily and were married afterward.

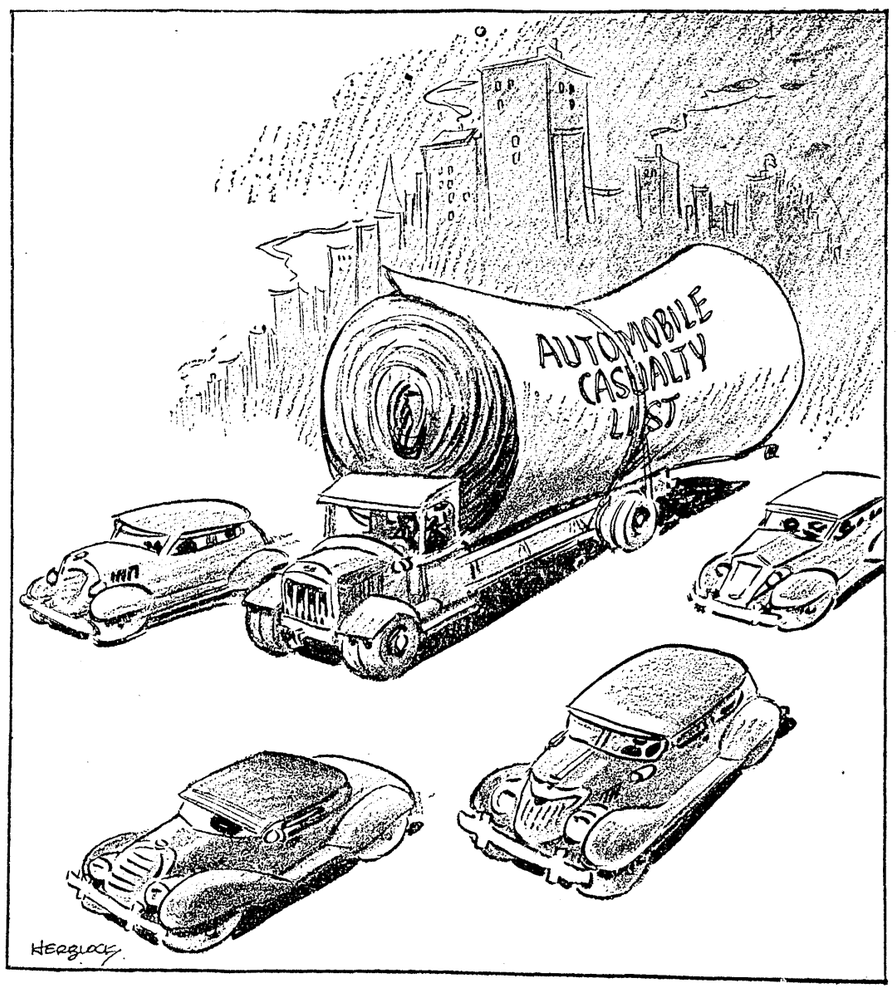
Something Else To Be Streamlined



They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON.—Louis McHenry Howe, Franklin D. Roosevelt's right bower for the last 25 years—since Mr. Roosevelt was in the New York legislature—is being forced to relinquish his job as chief secretary to the president at the insistence of his physicians. Howe must take a long rest, and not worry about the "chief's" problems.

Howe will be succeeded, if Mr. Roosevelt's persuasive ability is up to normal, by Frank C. Walker, new executive secretary of the national emergency council, and until a few weeks ago treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

Walker does not want the job. He has told the president so in emphatic language. As this is written he still thinks he can avoid taking it. But the president is determined, and close friends of both are betting that Walker will be sitting at Howe's desk inside of a week or two.

Which—assuming Walker is overpersuaded—will mean a set-up about which Washington politicians and observers have often talked, but which has never really materialized. For Walker, once on that job, will really be "assistant president." Make no mistake about that.

The title was used as far back as the Wilson administration, and first applied to Colonel E. M. House. But the Texas king-maker did not really take a desk at the White House, and while he served as the president's unofficial ambassador to the warring powers in Europe and was close to him in other ways up until the break, his contacts were infrequent as compared with those of Louis Howe with Roosevelt.

Sitting at Howe's desk, Walker will talk to the president not only every day, but many times a day. He will make decisions, as chief secretary. He will exercise power directly—not merely through giving advice.

Actually he has been, close friends insist, closer to the president than any one else outside the secretariat for a long period of time—dating back to before the Chicago convention. He remained in high favor while many others slumped off in the president's esteem.

During the pre-convention fight it was on the judgment of Walker and Cordell Hull that the president put the highest appraisal, as many lieutenants operating at a distance from headquarters discovered. They were told to consult Hull, or Walker, if any knotty problem arose requiring instant decision.

Since inauguration Walker's star has continued in the ascendant so far as the president is concerned. Mr. Roosevelt wants Walker around all the time. As it is he has been calling him with a frequency which considerably annoyed some of the brain trusters, but apparently that is not enough. He wants Walker at a desk right in the White House executive offices. And there he intends to have him, Walker's objections to the contrary notwithstanding.

Walker is already a tremendous figure in the administration. With Walker as head of the national emergency council, the president intended, in effect, that he should pass on every big issue that involved more than one of the various government departments, bureaus, commissions, authorities, or whatnot. In actuality he was intended to be the umpire in all inter-governmental disputes—acting for and with the president.

More than this, he was to be key man in the national planning of the administration looking to carrying out the New Deal policies.

But even that does not satisfy the president. He wants this man, whose soundness of judgment and clear thinking has so appealed to him, to sit at his right hand, so to speak, and help run the whole show.

Walker is slightly younger than the president, having been born on May 30, 1886, at Plymouth, Pennsylvania. He was taken to Montana by his parents when he was only three years of age, and was educated in the local schools at Butte, later attending Gonzaga college at Spokane, Washington. He was graduated from Notre Dame college of law in 1909.

He speedily got into politics, being assistant district attorney in Butte for three years, a member of the Montana legislature at the time Thomas J. Walsh was elected senator, and then devoted himself to the private practice of law.

He went to New York in January, 1925, to be general counsel for the Comerford Theater chain, headed by his uncle, M. E. Comerford.

He was married in 1914—to Miss Hallie Boucher of Butte, and has two children, Thomas, 12 years old, and Laura Hallie, 9.

The friendship between Walker and Roosevelt ripened shortly after he went to New York. He took an active part in the gubernatorial campaign in 1928 in which Roosevelt won the governorship and Al Smith lost the state for president.

Despite his extraordinary close relations with the president, he has managed to avoid the kind of enmities that usually involve a king's favorite. He is one of the few men close to the president who is not always subject to sapping and mining by other favorites and would-be favorites. The president, it was said today by a very close friend, has been enormously impressed with this demonstration of Walker's ability to get along with people of extremely different type.

By the forced retirement of Louis Howe the president suffers a very great personal loss. No ripple has occurred in 25 years to disturb their friendship, and no one has ever questioned the extraordinary devotion of "Louie" to his chief. He would stay at the White House desk forever. But the doctors have decreed otherwise, and the president is aware of their opinion.

Storage Rate Given By Cleaning Plants

In an advertisement appearing in The Monroe Morning World Wednesday, signed by 14 cleaning establishments of Monroe and West Monroe, it was stated that "storage of articles and garments by these concerns would cost one-fourth of declared depreciated value per month or 25 cents minimum."

This was a typographical error and should have read "Storage of articles and garments, one-fourth of one per cent of declared depreciated value per month or 25 cents minimum."

The error has been corrected in this issue of The News-Star.

CENTENARY DEAN GIVES TALK HERE

Professor R. E. Smith Discusses History At Lions Meeting

Dean R. E. Smith, professor of Bible history at Centenary college, Shreveport, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Monroe Lions club, at its regular meeting Tuesday noon in Hotel Frances. Dean Smith, discussing various phases of American history, paid tribute to President Roosevelt as "a great and honest man who, though he may make mistakes, they will be mistakes of the heart and not of the head."

The speaker disclosed some of the "skeletons in our historical closet," and said, "some of the events of our past as a nation we may well be ashamed of. They are things that we may well forget though we should always keep in mind the lessons they imply."

He told of the time in the War of 1812, when American soldiers failed to stop the march of the British on the national capital, permitting a disaster which resulted in destruction of the capitol building. "We don't talk much about that," he said, "but it is a historical fact of which we are ashamed." He likewise told of subterfuges by which the United States acquired Alaska and the site for the Panama canal. "Those things did not reflect credit on American statesmanship," he said, "but they are things of the past, and we should forget the incidents, while remembering what they teach us of the need of honesty in governmental affairs. Thank God we have a president at Washington today who is honest.

Dr. C. P. Gray, recently elected president of the Louisiana Medical society, was also a speaker, and complimented the Lions club on its efforts to "stimulate fellowship and understanding among business men of the community."

James Kelly, who represented the Junior Red Cross at the recent conference at Washington, made a report telling of the success of the Louisiana group in winning the banner for the greatest proportional increase in membership in the past year.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

NEW YORK.—After nine days' wandering in Harlem, this colmn seemed to have reported its full quota of negro folklore and witchdoctoring and such. But now there is going to be some addenda, because it turns out that I know an amateur, though celebrated, practitoner of "hoodoo" charms.

He is Ben Lucien Burman, whom literary critics insist upon identifying as "the new Mark Twain" because they like his "Steamboat Round the Bend" and his "Missssippi." After collecting material for a book in the Deep South, he goes over to Morocco or Algeria to write it.

In Africa Abou Ben Burman is considered a very great marabou because he has described such magic contrivances as the x-ray and the microscope. Also it is known that he successfully outwitched the Aisawa, a fanatical and quite-mad sect of self-torturers and glass-eaters. The Burmans had discovered that their native cook, Zahoura, had sworn eternal fealty to the Aisawa because they had cured her rheumatism. Dangerous as it was to monkey with native religions, it seemed less dangerous than the chance of finding ground glass in the omelet some morning. So with signs and incantations, a bit of tattooing with iodine, and a special charm made of a ball of tallow and a hair from her head, Burman convinced the woman that she no longer was under the spell of the cult. And next time the Aisawa drums throbbed she apparently didn't even hear them.

Acting The Doctor

Down on the Mississippi Burman's witch-doctoring career began with the problem of a servant in the home of his friends. The negro had become so jittery that he wasn't a bit of good around the house; he was sure an evil hoodoo doctor was putting spells on him. Burman told the servant he'd fix that all right, because he'd learned about black magic in Africa. So he whittled a little wooden cross to be worn under the negro's hat, and made up a little verse to be recited ten times a day. The charms worked.

One of his greatest triumphs was curing a steamboat rouster named Dave of an urge for gambling. This called for another verse (all charms practically have to have a rhyme connected with them) and a red capsule of a very bitter powder (you can guess what) to be worn on a string around his neck. Whenever Dave wanted to gamble he was to taste the powder, and if it was bitter that was a sure sign he'd lose all his money. If he ever started to gamble he was to look at his right hand, and if it trembled that was another very bad sign.

Well, the powder always tasted bitter, and his hand always trembled, and Dave hasn't lost his wages since.

Novel Stuff

Burman has collected hundreds of superstitions which at one time or another will all be grist for his writings. To catch witches, for example, it is only necessary to go to sleep with a mosquito net around one's head. It seems a witch has to go in and out each mesh before it can grab its victim, so by morning it gets all tired out and tangled up . . . To see the dead, you cook a "dumb" supper," saying no word and working with your back to the stove. This is a common belief in Harlem.

To find anything that is lost you touch a grand-daddy-long-legs with a stick, and the first leg the spider lifts will point the direction in which you must search.

A piece of rope used in a hanging is a powerful charm for good . . . Snail writing will answer any question if you can find somebody who can read it. . . . A horrible ceremony with a black cat is required to make a person invisible and invisibility is believed to permit the commission of a lot of crimes . . . To cure sore throat, get the shoe of a man who never has seen his father, fill the shoe with water, and then gargle . . . For getting even with an enemy, bury the dust of a long-dead snake where the enemy will walk over it. The snake will come up and live inside the enemy's leg. White doctors may call these snakes varicose veins, but hoodoo people know better.

All Over An Overcoat!

Ricardo Cortez may be a big shot in some quarters, but there's one hat check girl in town whom he can't impress at all. In one of the popular night spots recently the actor asked the girl to sew the tack loop in his overcoat. She replied that she had no needle and thread.

Then Cortez demanded that the coat be put on a hanger and was told that she had no hanger. So he insisted that she carefully fold the coat and was politely informed that if he wanted the coat folded, he would better do it himself.

Maternal Mae West

And now Mae West arises to state—in case anyone is interested—that she thinks she would make a darned good mother.

"I would be broadminded and tolerant and still be a good influence in the lives of my children," she declares. "I'd give them a free hand so long as they were good and a hand where it would count the most, if they got too much out of line.

Proof Of Pure Love

How's this for proof that these screen love scenes are purely acting—sometimes? The other day I bumped into Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell posing for some very romantic pictures. And between shots, Dick was telling Ruby all about Mary Brian.

NEVILLE STUDENT BACK FROM MEET

James D. Kelly Attends National Junior Red Cross Sessions

James Douglas Kelly, senior at Neville high school, has just returned to Monroe from Washington, D. C., where he attended the four-day session of the national Junior Red Cross convention held in connection with the meeting of the senior organization. The convention began April 9 and continued through April 12.

Mr. Kelly attended as a delegate of the junior organization of Ouachita parish. His expenses were defrayed by students of the city schools.

During the sessions, Mr. Kelly delivered a 10-minute address on "How Can the Junior Red Cross Help People Handicapped by the Depression?" He had the honor of accepting on behalf of Louisiana the Crosby banner, a trophy bestowed upon the state showing the largest increase over the previous year of Junior Red Cross members.

Three hundred high school students, representing 27 states and Porto Rico, attended the sessions, Mr. Kelly said.

Among the matters discussed at length before the sessions, he said, were ways and means the juniors may aid local chapters, participation in regional conferences and the annual roll call, continuation of the junior program after the students finish school, plans to aid children underprivileged because of the depression, and plans to assist relief agencies, the blind, ex-service men and their families, especially in the rural sections.

A report rendered at the convention showed, Mr. Kelly said, that the Junior Red Cross is now organized in 52 countries with a total membership of 14,000,000 members. The United States leads with 7,000,000 members

DELINQUENT BOYS

To the Editor:

At the afternoon session of the Parent-Teacher association convention on Thursday one of the speakers made a very interesting talk on the importance of organized recreation for children. He related an incident where four boys had broken into an industrial plant in West Monroe and had been caught and sentenced to a term in the Louisiana Training institute. He brought out the fact that each boy sent to that institute costs the state of Louisiana $420 and that the amount of money spent to send those four boys to the institute would have done much toward providing organized recreation for the boys of West Monroe, thus keeping their minds occupied to the extent that they would not have time to think of mischief. I think everyone agrees with that speaker.

Mr. Bunn Beasley, superintendent of Brown Paper Mill company, Inc., has sponsored the organization of a club for the boys of employes of Brown Paper mill. Their club is called The Cubbs and takes in boys from the age of eight years. Mr. Carey Philips has these boys in charge.

He is all that a man should be to undertake a task such as he has undertaken. The boys are all fond of him and do their best to please him. The Cubbs meet once a week and at each meeting they are assigned the task of building something during the week to bring to the next meeting. Each boy has made a paddle, bow and arrow, kite, bird house and rubber gun. These things are kept at the club house to show to visitors and thus inspire the boys. Once a week the boys meet to play ball. The standards of The Cubbs are about the same as the standards of the Boy Scout organization.

Mr. Beasley has also organized a harmonica band and Sunday school for the boys. To be a good Cubb a boy must attend Sunday school regularly.

There is a decided improvement in the conduct of the boys of Brownville since the club has been organized.

If more of the superintendents of the industrial plants of Louisiana and particularly Monroe and West Monroe, would take the interest in the boys of the employes of their plants that Mr. Beasley has taken in the boys of his plant we wouldn't have so many boys in the Louisiana Training institute.

PEACE SIGNS SEEN IN TEXAS FIELD

Orderly Production And Conservation In Area Anticipated

TYLER, Texas, April 18.—(AP)—Signs of peace were definitely forming in the battle-scarred east Texas oil field today with oil men firmly convinced that orderly production and conservation of the area will soon become a reality.

Enthusiastic statements emanated from the joint meeting of the executive board of the Texas Petroleum council and the oil and gas committee of the east Texas chamber of commerce held at Tyler yesterday.

The independents unanimously instructed Jules Constantin, president of the East Texas Independent Refiners association, to unqualifiedly accept the offer of major producers to supply independent refiners of the field with five per cent of their daily allowed production at posted prices.

Veteran oil men tagged this action as a sure means of stabilizing the east Texas industry.

Speakers arose at an oil men's luncheon and indicated that most of the fight in the struggle for conservation, although not all, had been won.

The railroad commission agents in the field gingered two more effective weapons today for use in the fight against hot oil. First, official report forms by which the agents hope to tighten the run of illegal oil were formally issued at Austin, complying with regulations promulgated by the special session of the legislature. Second, the commission has adopted a method of daily public hearings on oil tenders by which each case is investigated before authority is given for transportation of the crude to its destination.

Penney Store Manager Returns From Vacation

J. J. Martin, manager of the local J. C. Penney company store, returned Wednesday morning from a six weeks' vacation trip to Battle Creek, Mich., Chicago, New York and Boston.

Mr. Martin declared that in addition to enjoying a wonderful vacation and rest he obtained many new merchandising ideas which he expects to put in force in the local store.

The Penney manager's return incidently is on the eve of the 32nd anniversary of the Penney company which will be celebrated locally by a huge merchandising sale which starts Thursday.

Another Relief Session Of Legislature Is Seen

DALLAS, Texas, April 18.—(AP)—Possibility of another special session of the state legislature to provide additional relief funds was seen here by Col. Lawrence Westbrook, assistant to Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, upon departure for Washington.

Westbrook, former Texas relief director, said he doubted that the $4,000,000 appropriated at the last session of the legislature would last until 1935.

Westbrook also praised the efficiency of Miss Marie Dresden, recently appointed state relief director to succeed Adam Johnson of Austin, ousted by the Texas relief commission.

CUSTOMERS HONEST

HAYS, Kas.—(AP)—In 15 years of business Charles King, Hays merchant, says he has lost only $1 through bad checks, but admits several were "difficult to collect."

MY GRANDMOTHER'S GARDEN

By Ruth Blocher Robinson

O, well remembered spot of childhood days,
That garden quaint, with paths and borders trim,
Square beds and long, and little winding ways
With flowers lined in rows all straight and prim.

In spring's soft breeze and summer's sun they grew
Within those beds with tiny paths between;
Bright daffodils, shy pansies, violets blue,
Sweet-scented valley lilies, mosses green.

My childish feet trod in these walks with care
That I might closer view such wondrous flowers
As snapdragons and buttercups, and stare
At four o'clocks that waked in evening hours.

Blue bells, forgetmenots, I loved the best,
And trembled at the tiger lilies grim.
False loves, red bleeding hearts, to me confessed,
While hollyhocks were soldiers brave and slim.

All these, and many more mysterious flowers,
Whose names fantastic stories wove for me,
Made up this garden, whose bright sunlit bowers,
So strange, so sweet, so dear, I still can see!

You can have a sheet of fragrant summer color outside your window this season, if you will start now to make a box for that purpose and plan your choice of flowers. Here is one instance where even the most crowded apartment dweller can express his love for garden color, and with a minimum of expense and trouble.

For the window box, there is nothink quite so beautiful as an array of annuals, planted with a view to all season bloom. They are inexpensive, hardy and easy to grow; and with a little care in setting them out, a quantity of bloom can be assured which is astounding for so small a space.

Among the annuals, the petunia is perhaps the most practical, and one of the most beautiful. Rosy Morn, Rose of Heaven and Heavenly Blue are good varieties. The balcony type, which have a trailing habit and droop from the box, are also fine. All need a sunny window, as do nasturtiums, snapdragons and French marigolds.

Where a shady condition is prevalent, some of the tuberous plants are better fitted. The caladium and begonia do well without the full sun. Among the vines, the trailing vinca is superb. Boston ferns are excellent for shady boxes.

Build your window boxes of good strong material, so that the constant moisture will not warp and destroy them. Make several holes in the bottom to permit of drainage, and put in a layer of leaves or compost to keep the flowers cool. A few pieces of broken crockery will help to keep the soil loose and assist in drainage.

On account of the small amount of soil in a window box, it is necessary to give your flowers plenty of water and fertilizer. Plant food should be applied with a spoon in a manner that will assure none getting on the stalk; a tablespoon a week during the early period will suffice. In exceptionally hot weather, water the box twice a day.

Literary Guild Enjoys The Hospitality Offered In The Home Of Mrs. T. J. Sandridge

Mrs. T. J. Sandridge was hostess to members of the Literary Guild on Monday afternoon.

Interesting reports from the fifth district federation meeting held in Tallulah were given by Mrs. W. M. Harper and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

James Stephens, the Irish author, was the subject for the afternoon's program. Mrs. Harry Newhall in telling of James Stephens quoted Burton Roscoe who wrote his impression of Stephens when he came to America in 1925.

"A bent little figure, not more than four feet ten inches in height, with a long head and a face like a faun's. . . . His brown eyes shifted about nervously with a timorous and appealing look, like those of a small animal that has been caught up and caressed. His hands were deep in his pockets and this, together with his military heels, gave him a pitched-forward appearance, as though he were thrown out of balance. . . . His mouth was loose and open in excitement, and around the corners was a mischievous smile. . . . His nose was short and pugged; his brow high and receding. His upper eyelids were contracted into sharp lines forming triangles. His skin was dark and his hair black and wiry. His age was indeterminable; he might he anywhere between thirty and sixty. . . . He was utterly without self conscious pose, solemnity, inhibitions, suppressions or affectations. Never have I seen a man who impressed me as being so easy, free and natural, so untamed by society, so untouched by convention, so spontaneous, pagan, and joyous . . . there was something innocent and child-like about the free play of his mind and spirit."

"The Crock of Gold," which is said by critics to be Stephens' best work, was reviewed by Mrs. S. L. Digby. It is said there is no book in the world in the least like it and probably there will never be another. It is a whimsical, delightful, fantasia of men, gods and fairies; not a novel nor a fairy tale nor quite an allegory but partakes of all these forms and rises above them as a work of art.

Mrs. J. R. Humble discussed, as follows, the individuality of the author:

"Stephens speaks in a delicious Irish brogue and a musical voice, and accompanies his anecdotes with comical mimetics. When he recites poetry, he swings from side to side with the rhythm. His memory is filled with poems, stories, and epigrams, and he is always willing to talk. He can recite by the hour without notes. When he lectures he has nothing of the professional platform manner about him.

"His closest friends are A. E. and Stephen McKenna. Before he sailed for one of his visits to America, Stephens says he and McKenna spent three days together 'and we had a grand conversation. We began at eight o'clock in the morning and continued until two the next morning. Then we would begin at eight again the morning and continue again until two o'clock. And at the end of those three days we hadn't even scratched the surface of the things we wanted to talk about.' He and McKenna sing Irish songs to the accompaniment of a concertina between conversations."

Mrs. Sandridge, assisted by her lovely mother, Mrs. Bostick, served her guests a delectable salad course. Present were: Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. Harry Newhall, Mrs. Newton Moore, Mrs. Herbert Breard, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mrs. S. L. Digby, Mrs. O. A. Easterling, Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. J. R. Humble, Mrs. Lucius Hughes, Mrs. B. M. McKoin.

Friends extend their sincere sympathy to Mrs. Joseph Marks in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Bertha Sackman, whose death occurred in Alexandria. Mrs. Sackman was also an aunt of Mrs. I. Heinberg of this city.

Miss Louise Gail Dillard continues ill at her home to the regret of her many friends.

Mrs. Paul Matthews is entertaining her charming mother, Mrs. St. Elmo Newton of Memphis, Tenn., this week.

SPRING—IN A GREAT WHITE WAY

Even without the deep and dreamy look in Ruby Keeler's eyes, the spirit of spring would find adequate expression in the hat and gloves she wears. The girlish-looking hat is of white organdy. The white organdy gloves have pleated gauntlets, making a filmy halo for well-dressed hands.

Delta Beta Sigma Members Plan For Entertainment Of The National Convention

With the national convention of Delta Beta Sigma sorority convening in this city in June, members of the local chapter are busily engaged arranging the elaborate program for the entertainment of the delegates. An entertainment such as these ambitious young moderns have planned, necessitates an expenditure of money and with this thought in mind a benefit bridge was given last Saturday afternoon at the Delta Sigma fraternity house. The reception suite, banked with flowers, created a charming background for the lovely young hostesses in their colorful summer frocks.

The trophies for high score were won by Mrs. Roy Hale, Mrs. Sam Robbins and Miss Bernice Worthington.

Plans for the coming convention were also discussed by Delta Beta Sigma members over the dinner table at the Lotus club Friday night when the anniversary banquet brought the members together in the most charming manner.

The dinner table was developed in the sorority colors, purple and white, with an oval plaque of purple Iris and bridal wreath centering the board. A delicious five-course dinner was served to:

Dorothy Williamson, Roberta Neel, Virginia Faulk, Elaine Rester, Polly Nenny, Jessie Lee McKoin, Eleanor Trew, Willine Boxley, Sara Morrison, Irene Stroud, Jennie Myers, Marjorie Chambers, Rachel Haynes, Jane Gregory, Betty Reily, Doris Reid, Jane Terzia, Lorraine Matthews, Martha Olive Myatt, Betty Keller, Ellen Hale, Mary Ann Dixon, Virginia Buckner, Hilda Ann Hair, Norma Mailhes (Shreveport), Bonita Allen, India Stubbs, Jonnie Cox, Jennie Hanna, Elizabeth Kennedy, Beverly Russell, Frances Browning, Nancy Terzia, Sara Mae Adams, Mrs. Charles Garretson, Anna Rosalee Herring, Mable Hunt, Happy Tidwell, Pollyanna Shotwell, Ruth Helen Harvey, Nibby McKenzie.

Mrs. G. F. Brunston of Colorado Springs, affectionately remembered here as Mildred Russell, daughter of Mrs. Harry Russell, Sr., was the guest of honor at a charming luncheon-bridge on Tuesday with Mrs. Joseph Renwick and Mrs. Bernice Nichols, hostesses at their suburban home, "Wildwood."

Pink roses and purple Iris, clustered in picturesque urns formed a lovely color theme in the reception suite where the hostesses received thir guests. Luncheon was served the guests upon arrival at tables covered with crisp linens and beautifully appointed with silver and crystal. A three course, broiled chicken luncheon was served. Bridge was introduced later and trophies for high score, handsome double decks of cards, presented to Mrs. Lewella Hays and Mrs. Lucius Hughes. Mrs. Brunston was also favored with cards for remembrance.

Enjoying the hospitality of this charming home and the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Brunston were: Mrs. Thomas Easterling, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh, Mrs. Peyton Parker, Mrs. Gladys Sperry, Mrs. Dorothy Blackman, Mrs. Lewella Hays, Mrs. L. Hughes, Mrs. Harry Russell, Jr., Mrs. Frank Farmer.

A beautiful spot along the margin of the river on the Columbia road lured a group of congenials last Sunday evening who enjoyed an al fresco supper of their own preparing. Steaks were broiled over the glowing coals and other edibles usually associated with a supper of this kind enjoyed by Miss Happy Tidwell and J. W. Perry, Miss Dorothy Calvert and Pete Godwin, Miss Jane Colbert and Harry Bailey, Jr., Miss Precilla Hodge and John Bishop Johnston, Jr., Miss Anna Laurie Smith and Glenn Walker, Miss Doris Davenport and James Cox, Messers. Art Surguine and Harry St. John. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. E. Starsney.

Mrs. George Brian and Mrs. James Naylor of Delhi entertained with a charming pre-nuptial affair in honor of Miss Emma Mason, whose marriage to Mr. Roy Simmons was an interesting event of last week.

The affair was in the nature of a miscellaneous shower with beautiful gifts presented to Miss Mason by three lovely young girls wearing crisp organdy frocks in the pastel shades. Song numbers contributed by Peggy Arender and Gloria Wallank and several clever readings, contributed by Mrs. Joseph Tambeau added considerably to the pleasures of the afternoon.

A delectable salad course was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Brian's lovely daughter, Mary Louise Brian, and Miss Hazel Tarver.

Mrs. William Rodriguez, came back from the seventh annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Music clubs, in Shreveport, loud in praise of the gracious hospitality extended and enthusiastic over the splendid program arranged for the visitors. Three affairs in particular, were considered outstanding by Mrs. Rodriguez . . . the luncheon at the Shrine club, the reception at the handsome home of Mrs. J. E. Smitherman and the presentation of the operetta "Louisiana" at the Municipal auditorium. The Shreveport Symphony orchestra concert was of course one of the highlights of the convention program with the Bach number, according to Mrs. Rodriguez, one of the most beautiful offerings on the program.

Mrs. Louis Hullum will again guide the destinies of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs in the capacity of president. Her message to the assemblage on the opening day of the convention was a distinct feature.

The presence of the national president, Mrs. John Alexander Jardine added considerable distinction to the convention. Her glowing address inspired every musician present. Several Monroe musicians of prominence appeared on the program; Mrs. Walter Rasbury who represented the Fine Arts club and Mrs. Henry Whitfield who represented the Musical Coterie.

Chapter 46

THE PLAN

TENN-OG stepped away and coolly walked across the logs. That was more than Curt cared to try. He got down and crept along the bridge on hands and knees, with Paul behind him. Midway he stopped, loosened a piece of bark and listened for the sound. Several seconds later he heard the bark hit against a rock and splash into the stream.

The chasm, about seventy feet deep, was not so abysmal as he had thought; but for the man who fell into it those seventy feet would be plenty, with rocks to crash on and that underground creek to sweep one away.

Joining Tenn-Og on the other side, he lit another match and looked around. He found himself in a large irregularly shaped cave, warm and dry and fully fifty feet across. Six fits like the entrance led off in a dozen directions, some straight back into the mountain rock, others paralleling the face of the cliff. By the match flare he also noticed signs of human occupancy.

In the flickering light he glanced at Tenn-Og, who was staring at the snowshoes and fireplace; and on the stay there till he got ready to let them out!

Under ordinary circumstances a bush-wise outfit like them would hesitate about venturing into so plain a deadfall, but in the heat of a fight they probably would not stop to weigh danger.

The idea intrigued him, largely because it would avoid heavy bloodshed. He hated to think of shooting into those men and killing as he would have to kill to stop a determined rush. They were an admirable little clan. Besides, this fight was not their fight but Karakhan's, and the Russian would not be in that charge. He would be hiding behind others, letting others be victimized in protecting him.

As much as he wanted to try the trap, he finally decided against it.

BACK outside, he explained to Tenn-Og that the cave was no good, and asked him to show them a better place.

The Indian took them down slope fifty yards, worked over to the left and brought them to a little knoll. The spot looked ideal to Curt at his first glance.

A tangle of rocks and windfall logs gave them fine cover; the slope fell away so steeply in front that an attack from that direction was impossible; and the upper side was protected by a thicklet of devil's-club, spiked with wicked three-inch thorns.

"Don't shoot," said Curt.

The range was as good as he could ask for, and down at the lake shore the whole camp lay wide open to their guns.

The stars had already paled and were fading one by one.

Down at the cabin a man, a white man, stepped out into the gray dawn, looked around and started down to the canoe landing. Curt's fingers tightened on his rifle as he watched the Russian.

At the lake headland to the east a canoe loomed out of the gray mist. Others followed it till presently ten were strung along the shore. One canoe nosed ahead of the others. In the prow of it Curt's aching eyes picked out a small slim figure sitting proudly erect, and his heart leaped. She'd come through safely!

With rifle out at ready he watched the meeting between her and Karakhan, and saw them start up the path. While he waited, fingering his rifle impatiently, he was suddenly startled by a throaty yelp from the direction of the cave. Jerking around, he saw five of the big honey-colored huskies filter out of a thicket and come loping straight for the knoll.

Tenn-Og dropped the leader with a silent arrow, killing the dog in its tracks. His next arrow struck a husky in the flank. It yelped, whirled and bit at the dart. The others took the hint and stayed back a respectful distance, with a furious snarling and barking.

Down at the lean-to's several men grabbed spears and came rushing up the slope, thinking perhaps that the dogs had brought a prowling grizzly to bay. Still LeNoir did not show himself, and Siam-Klale was more than three hundred yards from the landing.

With the ghost of an idea in mind he stepped back again to the bridge, took hold of the ends of the logs, lifted them up, and assured himself that the two timbers could easily be thrown into the chasm. If he could somehow get the Klosohees across into the cave proper and then push down the bridge, they would

THE other Klosohees didn't know about it, Tenn-Og said. They knew about the cave, they often spent a night there or waited out a blizzard; but they knew nothing about the ledge opening. He and the girl had found it accidentally while exploring their home.

"In that case," Paul argued, "they couldn't trap us in here, partner. You and I, shooting from the entrance yonder, would have solid rock protection on all sides except in front. If something did go wrong, we could back up across this chasm, kick these logs down, and be safe against an army!"

But Curt was not satisfied. For defense the place was perfect, as Paul said. But defense was not enough. If they were to tear Sonya away and nail Karakhan, they would have to push the fight, and the cave was too far distant from the camp for sure rifle work, and a drogue of spruces just down slop almost completely hid the cabin.

With the ghost of an idea in mind he stepped back again to the bridge, took hold of the ends of the logs, lifted them up, and assured himself that the two timbers could easily be thrown into the chasm. If he could somehow get the Klosohees across into the cave proper and then push down the bridge, they would while for many miles to take in the bargain offerings. Ward week closes Saturday night."

Bill Terry Well Pleased With Giants After Opening Game

NEW YORK CLUB HIGHLY PRAISED BY ITS MANAGER

Champions Polish Off Phillies; Two Regulars Out Of Lineup

By Edward J. Neil
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 18. — You could almost see the canary feathers sticking out of the corners of Bill Terry's mouth—he was so pleased with the world in general and his world champion Giants in particular.

"They had me worried a little in the south, but I'm afraid everything is going to be very much all right," he grinned. "They sure look good in there. This is quite a ball club."

The Giants had just finished picking up against the Phillies in the opening game of the season exactly where they left off last fall against the Washington Senators, even though the caliber of the opposition was scarcely the same.

But there was Carl Hubbell, anything but a champion this spring, pitching beautifully again, starting the season with what might have been a shutout if Jimmy Wilson, the new Philadelphia pilot, hadn't done what managers teach their players never to do. With the count two balls and no strikes, Jimmy slugged the next pitch into the stands for a home run, hardly cricket under the circumstances, but a homer nevertheless.

And Blondy Ryan, who couldn't buy a hit all spring, subbed for the ailing Hughey Critz at second, unperturbed by the fact that he had lost his shortstop job to marvelous Travis Jackson, got himself two fine hits, and was once more the first man into, and the last man out of, every conference.

"Yep," said Terry, "the only two men I'm worried about on this club now are Mel Ott and myself. We're not hitting. But speaking directly for one and on behalf of the other, I can say we will. And did you see the crowd out there? There must have been 37,000 people. Say last year we didn't see that many in the stands until we hit the world series."

The experts had agreed that the Giants were due to get off badly lacking Critz, who has an infected foot, and Gus Mancuso, sturdy catcher. Terry admitted he was afraid the balance of the club might have been disturbed, but not any more. Mancuso, recovering from typhoid fever, has been working out every day and will be ready to catch, though not regularly, in a week. Critz will have to battle Ryan for the second base job when the Mississippi boy does get back.

FALLETTA FIGHTS MICKEY HAZUDA

Local Boxer Battles Caddo Mittman In Ferriday Wednesday

FERRIDAY, La., April 18.—(Special)—"Swede" Falletta, the 168-pound Monroe Italian who knocked out Gyp Zarro, of Pittsburgh, in Monroe recently will appear against Mickey Hazuda, of Shreveport, in the main bout of the American Legion's boxing program here Wednesday night.

The Falletta-Hazuda battle is scheduled for 10 rounds. Hazuda weighs 161 pounds.

Falletta has recently completed a tour in the south and southwest, fighting some of the best boys in Dallas, Oklahoma City, New Orleans and Fort Worth. Hazuda is a popular favorite in Shreveport and Texas points. He recently won a knockout victory over Bernie Tyson in Houston, Texas.

In the semi-final eight-rounder, Buck McKay, 150, of Ferriday, will clash with Thad Taylor, 150, of Natchez, Miss. Preliminary bouts will be between Kid Ourso and Kid Summerall; Monkey Cross, of Vidalia, and Waterproof Willie, two 150-pounders, and Black River Reeves, 150, of Monterey, vs. Al Werlein, 150, of St. Joseph CCC camp.

Evangeline League

(By Associated Press)

New Iberia dropped its first league game yesterday to the hard-hitting Opelousas squad, 7 to 2, but retained its leadership in the circuit, with three games won and one lost.

Opelousas batsmen hopped on New Iberia pitchers for 15 hits and chased Gore off the mound in the fourth inning. Bourgeois, who succeeded him, fared little better.

Lake Charles went into a tie for second place with Opelousas by turning back Lafayette, 4 to 3, in a well played game.

In the other contest, Alexandria, trailing in the league, dropped a contest to Rayne, 12 to 4.

Warning Issued Against Lotteries, Sweepstakes

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18.—(AP)—A warning that lotteries and sweepstakes conducted on the Kentucky Derby are illegal and have no connection with the Derby management was issued Tuesday by Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association.

"Those who buy such tickets are throwning their money away," said Colonel Winn. "There is no responsibility on anybody to pay winning tickets. The whole thing is illegal and we will prosecute to the limit any person or group of persons who may use the name of our organization in this connection."

WASHINGTON WINS FIRST TILT FROM BOSTON RED SOX

Senators Nose Out Rebuilt Aggregation By Score Of 6 To 5

BOSTON, April 18.—(AP)—Manager Joe Cronin's first hit of the 1934 season, a slashing two-bagger to left with one out in the eleventh, Tuesday started a rally that enabled his Washington Senators to nose out the rebuilt Red Sox, 6-5, before 33,336 spectators, one of the largest opening crowds in Boston's baseball history.

This drive was made against right-hander Henry Johnson, the third Boston hurler to take the mound in the $1,250,000 improved Fenway park.

Johnson was so upset by Cronin's wallop that he struck Fred Schulte on the arm with a pitched ball. Joe Kuhel helped the Boston cause by flying out, but Gus Dugas, batting for Ossie Bluege, worked the tiring Johnson for a pass. With two out and the bases filled, Cronin signalled from third, ordering Dave Harris up for Catcher Moe Berg. The "Sheriff" was able only to drop a dinky grounder down to third but it was enough, for Buck Walters juggled it as the Washington pilot romped home with the winning run.

A'S THUMP YANKS

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—(AP)—The Athletics, listed as a "weakling" team of the American league, lashed out with a fine show of strength and staying power Tuesday and defeated the New York Yankees 6 to 5 in the opening game of the 1934 season.

Only about 10,000 fans turned out to see Bing Miller smash a pinch hit with two out in the ninth inning to drive in the score that climaxed a two-run rally and won the game.

The game started out as a mound duel between Lefty Gomez and Merrit (Sugar) Cain but it soon developed into a free-for-all display of hitting and weak hurling as the Yanks used four pitchers and the A's two. This mound corps was charged with 18 hits, including a home run by Eric McNair, and as many free trips to first base.

TIGERS WALLOP CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 18.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers made Mickey Cochrane's managerial debut a success Tuesday by opportune use of six hits to defeat Chicago, 8 to 3, in the American league opener, before 18,000 spectators.

The Tigers did not hit so frequently, but combined their half-dozen blows with five bases on balls, a pair of wild pitches and an error, to score four runs in the second, and another cluster of four in the eighth.

McNaughton Of Rayville Beats Jones Of Monroe

Sorey Wins Decision Over Coronado At Roosevelt Stadium

Fighting for the first time under the new five-round rule for amateur boxers, Sam Jones, north Louisiana's outstanding lightweight boxer, lost a hard-fought battle to Fort McNaughton of Rayville, in a bloody nose-smashing, eye-smashing battle at Roosevelt stadium last night.

Jones, a Monroe fighter, carried the fight during the first round in a furious melee of flying fists. Both boxers were in great fighting form and never let the action die down. McNaughton received a cut under the left eye in the second round from one of Jones' jarring rights as the fight grew hotter.

The third round was about a draw but the Rayville fighter began to get more aggressive. McNaughton drew blood from Jones' nose in the fourth round and proceeded to get the best of the local boxer.

Jones' clinched often in the last round but kept smiling under the barrage of lefts and rights administered by McNaughton. Sam rallied in the last few seconds of the fight in an attempt to drive in a knockout blow but the bell ended the fight.

In another furious battle Herbert Sorey, veteran Rayville lightweight, won a decision over Matias Coronado, Mexican lightweight of Mangham. Sorey and Coronado mixed freely in the first round with Sorey getting a little the better of the fight.

Coronado went down under a terrific right to the jaw in the second round but jumped right up again without a count to mix warily with the Rayville scrapper. The third and fourth rounds were about even but the Mexican staged a sensational come back in the last round that almost spelled curtains for Sorey and rushed the Rayville boy all over the ring. However, Sorey withstood the Mexican's furious attack to gain a decision.

Howard Earl, 126, of Girard, gained a technical knockout over Don Pennington, 128, Ferriday, in a three-round preliminary battle, and Mina Feazel, 139, West Monroe, decisioned Roger McDougald, 137, of Chatham, in another three-round preliminary.

Earl floored Pennington twice in the second round and was saved by the bell at the end of the second as Referee Harry Prophit reached the nine count. However, Pennington was unable to come back and Earl won the fight.

Feazel showed considerable improvement since last summer in beating McDougald. McDougald, however, mixed freely with the West Monroe boxer and several times jarred Smiling Mina with lefts and rights.

The negro battles also were hard fought. Bill Smith, heavyweight, of Central Service station, knocked Robert Pope, 193, of Tidwell and Sons, all over the ring to win a four-round engagement. Pope was floored five times during the battle, once for a five count, once for a six count and three times for the count of nine. Shorty Dillard, 145, fought Louis Myers, 144, to a draw in the opening engagement of the night's card.

Harry Prophit refereed the main fights while Aldin Martin conducted the preliminary engagements. The judges were Horace Mangham of Rayville, Coach Percy Brown of Neville high school and Dr. Joe Brown. J. B. Swanson was timer.

As an added attraction to the night's program, "Frisco," a strait-jacket artist and musician, entertained with several musical numbers and gave an exhibition of an escape from a strait-jacket.

OPTIMISM BORNE OUT BY FIGURES OF FIRST GAMES

Weather Ideal In East; Lon Warneke Is Individual Hero

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—Before the largest opening day outpouring of fans in three years, major league baseball regained its place on the sports pages Tuesday.

Indicating the club owners had some justification for the general feeling of optimism with which they had approached the opening of the 1934 campaigns, the eight get-away games, four in the National and four in the American, drew an aggregate attendance of better than 180,000.

This compared with 153,526 for the eight openers spread over several days last year and 138,000 for the 1932 inaugurals, when adverse weather conditions likewise were a handicap. However, it still was far behind the record total of 249,010 set in 1931.

There was no kick on the menu the weather man handed out Tuesday. Conditions, especially in the east, were close to ideal. Of the total estimated attendance of 183,717 persons, no fewer than 116,000 were packed in the stands for the four eastern games at New York, Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia.

While the world champion New York Giants and the Washington Senators were starting off on the right foot in their bids to retain the pennants they captured a year ago, the day's outstanding individual performance was furnished by Lon Warneke, great right-hander of the Chicago Cubs.

Facing the rebuilt Cincinnati Reds before a crowd of 30,217 in Crosley field, the Arkansas star struck out 13 men and missed a no-hit game by the margin of two outs. He had it in his grasp, with one out in the ninth, when Adam Comorosky, former Pirate, singled for the only safety the Reds could make as the Cubs won, 6-0. Chuck Klein, National league batting champion last year, celebrated his debut in a Cub uniform with a home run.

The Giants, behind Carl Hubbell's four-hit pitching knocked over the Phillies, 6-1, before a crowd of 37,000, largest of the day, in the Polo Grounds. Hubbell's bid for a shutout was ruined by a seventh-inning home run by Jimmy Wilson, new manager of the Phils.

Danny Taylor and Hack Wilson clouted homers as the Brooklyn Dodgers gave 30,000 fans something to cheer about, an 8-7 victory over

Newellton Browns Beat St. Joseph Tigers, 9-0

NEWELLTON, La., April 18.—(Special)—The Newellton Browns won a 9-to-0 victory over the St. Joseph Tigers in a weekend game here but the remainder of their schedule will be played without the services of Cocentey, third baseman, who is out with a broken leg.

On May Day the locals will tangle with the Jonesville Cats on the High school Park diamond.

The Browns are also desiring more games and request that managers seeking games for their teams communicate with Willie Robinson, manager, box 47, or phone 71, Newellton.

GIANTS DEFEAT PHILADELPHIA IN SEASON'S OPENER

Hubbell Pitches Champions To Victory Before 37,000 Fans

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—Employing the Phillies as victims in their first laboratory test of the new baseball season, the world's champion New York Giants Tuesday performed a highly successful operation with the aid of the talented Prof. Carl Owen Hubbell and for the benefit of a noisy crowd of 37,000 spectators at the Polo Grounds.

The entire affair was one-sided and the final score, 6 to 1, as the Giants gave a characteristic exhibition of defensive skill while also taking quick advantage of their scoring opportunities. Hubbell, despite a shaky start, limited the Phillies to four hits, but his bid for a shut-out was spoiled when Jimmy Wilson, the new manager-catcher of the Phillies, walloped the liveller National league ball into the upper left-field stands in the seventh inning, for a home run.

Moore in the sixth belted one of Snipe Hansen's curves for a home run, with Paul Richards on base.

The opening day ceremonies were featured by a tribute to the late John Joseph McGraw, manager of the Giants for 30 years, who died last February. Players of both teams were lined up across the field while a bugler blew taps and the big crowd stood with bared heads.

CUBS TROUNCE REDS

CINCINNATI, April 18.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs came near making history here Tuesday as they shut out Cincinnati, 6 to 0, behind the one-hit pitching of Lon Warneke in the opening game of the season.

A scratch hit by Comorosky with one out in the ninth inning kept the Chicago hurler from the Hall of Fame for no-hit, no-run pitchers. It would have been the first no-hit game here on opening day in the record books.

The Cubs collected 11 hits off Si Johnson and Larry Benton before a crowd of 30,217.

In the sixth Chuck Klein hit a home run which scored W. Herman.

PELS TRIUMPHANT IN OPENING GAME

New Orleans Beats Barons, 6 To 3; 8,000 Fans See Tilt

NEW ORLEANS, April 18—(AP)—The New Orleans Pelicans opened the season Tuesday with a 6 to 3 victory over the Birmingham Barons before a crowd estimated at 8,000.

Andy Messenger, veteran slow ball artist, hurled for the locals, weakening in the ninth after Jake Daniel had ushered in Birmingham's final inning by slamming a home run over the right field fence. Clay Bryant came to his rescue and stopped the rally, retiring the Barons in a fast double play.

Shoaf started for Birmingham on the mound, but was relieved in the third inning by Carlor Moore, former Pelican.

Today's game was the first opening contest Birmingham has lost in six years.

Score by innings:

Birmingham	010	000	002	3	11	1
New Orleans	104	000	01x	6	8	0

Shoaf, C. Moore and Redmond; Messenger, Bryant and Autry.

TRAVELERS TROUNCE CHICKS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 18.—(AP)—The Little Rock Travelers came across the Mississippi Tuesday and snatched a Southern association opening day game from the Memphis Chicks, 4 to 2.

Frank Longinotti, secretary of the Memphis club, said the attendance was 5,851.

The game had all the resemblance of a mid-season tilt. Both teams fielded particularly well. Tex Nugent, right-handed pitcher who went the entire nine innings for the visitors, showed form in the pinches. The Travelers touched Billy Bayne, veteran southpaw, in the sixth and seventh innings for four runs. He was replaced by Armbrust.

Numerous straw hats in the grandstand and bright sunshine most of the afternoon added to the summer-like atmosphere.

Score by innings:

Little Rock	000	002	200	4	7	0
Memphis	000	000	200	2	11	0

SMOKIES DOWN LOOKOUTS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 18.—(AP)—Driving out 16 hits and playing behind the effective pitching of Del Wethherell, the Knoxville Smokies Tuesday defeated Chattanooga, 8 to 1, in a Southern association opener. The official attendance was announced as 4,783.

Rain fell during the morning but the skies cleared by game time. The game was played on a muddy field.

Aided by the batting of French and Holt, the Smokies got to Lefty Pettit, Lookout pitcher, and drove him from the mound in the fourth inning. Wetherell, Smoky pitcher, kept eight hits well scattered.

Score by innings:

Chattanooga	000	010	000	1	8	2
Knoxville	103	120	01x	8	16	3

Pettit, Cohen and Phillips; Wetherell and Head.

VOLS DEFEAT CRACKERS

ATLANTA, April 18.—(AP)—A boisterous attack in the fifth inning that netted five runs gave Nashville a 6-to-4 victory over Atlanta here Tuesday and spoiled the opening day celebration for some 12,500 fans who flocked to Ponce De Leon Park to see the Crackers in their debut.

Prather opened the Volunteers' attack with a home run over the right field fence. Four subsequent hits, including doubles by Weintraub and Richbourg, scored four additional runs.

Atlanta made a closing bid in the ninth, scoring twice but Chatham flied out with the bases loaded to end the rally.

Governor Eugene Talmadge formally opened the season by smacking an offering, tossed up by a smiling debutante, through third base for a single.

Score by innings:

Atlanta	000	110	002	4	6	1

the Boston Braves, while the other National league tussle, fought at St. Louis before a meagre crowd of 7,500, saw the Cardinals trounce the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, behind Dizzy Dean's six-hit pitching.

Washington's American league champions emerged victors over the rejuvenated Boston Red Sox, 6-5, when Bucky Walters' error let the winning run score in the eleventh but the Senators' chief rivals, if the experts are right, the New York Yankees, fell before Connie Mack's wrecked Philadelphia Athletics, 6-5. Thirty thousand, one of the largest opening day crowds in Boston history, saw the Senator-Red Sox struggle while only 10,000 were in the stands at Philadelphia.

Eighteen thousand saw the Detroit Tigers wallop the White Sox, 8-3, by putting together four-run rallies in the second and eighth, while Oral Hildebrand and Lloyd Brown combined to limit Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns to six hits as Cleveland entertained 21,000 home rooters with a 5-2 victory.

STATE GETS BIG SUM FROM RACES

Horses And Dogs Contribute Million To Florida's Coffer

MIAMI, Fla., April 18.—(Special)—With 1,491,224 sportsmen and women as witnesses, the racing ponies and dogs ponied up $1,072,160.91 in new revenue to the state kitty down in Florida during the past winter season.

Statistics being compiled in connection with the All-Florida Pioneers day, to be celebrated throughout the state on May 5 in tribute to Col. Henry L. Doherty, Henry M. Flagler, Henry Plant and other leaders in Florida's development, reveal that racing fans bet $27,549,749 in the pari-mutuels. Three horse tracks and seven dog tracks were in operation at various times between November 1 and April 1.

In combing out figures revealing causes of the new era of prosperity Florida is experiencing in the wake of its greatest tourist season, the Pioneers day committee noted that the state's "take" this year was $300,613.86 more than in 1933 and $334,870.51 more than the first harvest taken in under the legalized betting law passed over Governor Carlton's veto in 1931.

The Pioneer's day festival will especially honor Colonel Doherty for his contributions to the state in the way of amateur sports spectacles and events and for his efforts in prompting and lengthening the tourist season.

THE GUMPS — A Lesson Learned—Too Late — -By Sidney Smith

HM-M- YOU SAY YOU WROTE THEM A LETTER- CAN YOU REMEMBER WHAT WAS IN IT? COULD YOU GIVE ME THE GIST OF IT?
YES- I REMEMBER THE LETTER PERFECTLY- I WAS VERY HAPPY AT THE TIME- I HAD JUST BEEN RE-UNITED WITH LITTLE NELL, A CHILD I LOVED DEARLY-
4-18
AS I RECALL, THIS WAS MY LETTER, ALMOST WORD FOR WORD- "DEAR MRS DE STROSS- I'M AFRAID MY MARRIAGE IS OUT OF THE QUESTION- FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MY LIFE I HAVE DISCOVERED WHAT REAL LOVE IS- GREAT THOUGH MY GRIEF WAS- IN LOSING YOUR DAUGHTER- I HAVE FOUND ANOTHER LITTLE GIRL EVEN SWEETER- WHO HAS BROUGHT ME TRUE HAPPINESS AT LAST-"
THAT'S BAD- VERY BAD-
THAT'S WHERE YOU PUT YOUR FOOT IN IT, RIGHT THERE- I SEE WHERE THEY HAVE A VERY STRONG CASE AGAINST YOU- THEY MAY GET EVERY CENT THEY'RE SUING FOR AND MORE- IT'S TOO LATE TO TELL YOU NOW, BUT IF YOU'D COME TO ME FOR ADVICE- IF YOU'D ONLY GONE TO SEE THEM-PHONED 'EM ANYTHING, EXCEPT TO HAVE PUT THOSE WORDS IN WRITING- LET THIS BE A LESSON!

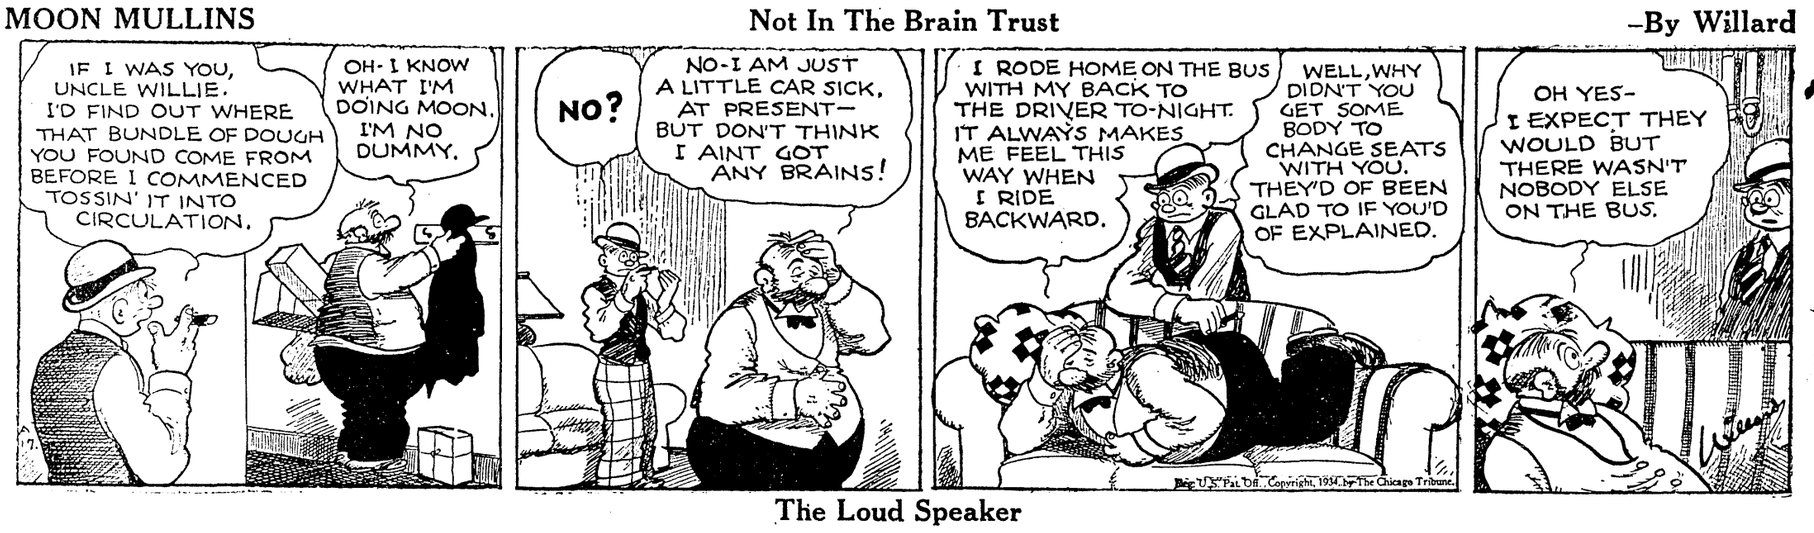
MOON MULLINS — Not In The Brain Trust — -By Willard



IF I WAS YOU, UNCLE WILLIE. I'D FIND OUT WHERE THAT BUNDLE OF DOUGH YOU FOUND COME FROM BEFORE I COMMENCED TOSSIN' IT INTO CIRCULATION.
OH- I KNOW WHAT I'M DOING MOON. I'M NO DUMMY.
NO?
NO- I AM JUST A LITTLE CAR SICK, AT PRESENT— BUT DON'T THINK I AINT GOT ANY BRAINS!
I RODE HOME ON THE BUS WITH MY BACK TO THE DRIVER TO-NIGHT. IT ALWAYS MAKES ME FEEL THIS WAY WHEN I RIDE BACKWARD.
WELL, WHY DIDN'T YOU GET SOME BODY TO CHANGE SEATS WITH YOU. THEY'D OF BEEN GLAD TO IF YOU'D OF EXPLAINED.
OH YES- I EXPECT THEY WOULD BUT THERE WASN'T NOBODY ELSE ON THE BUS.

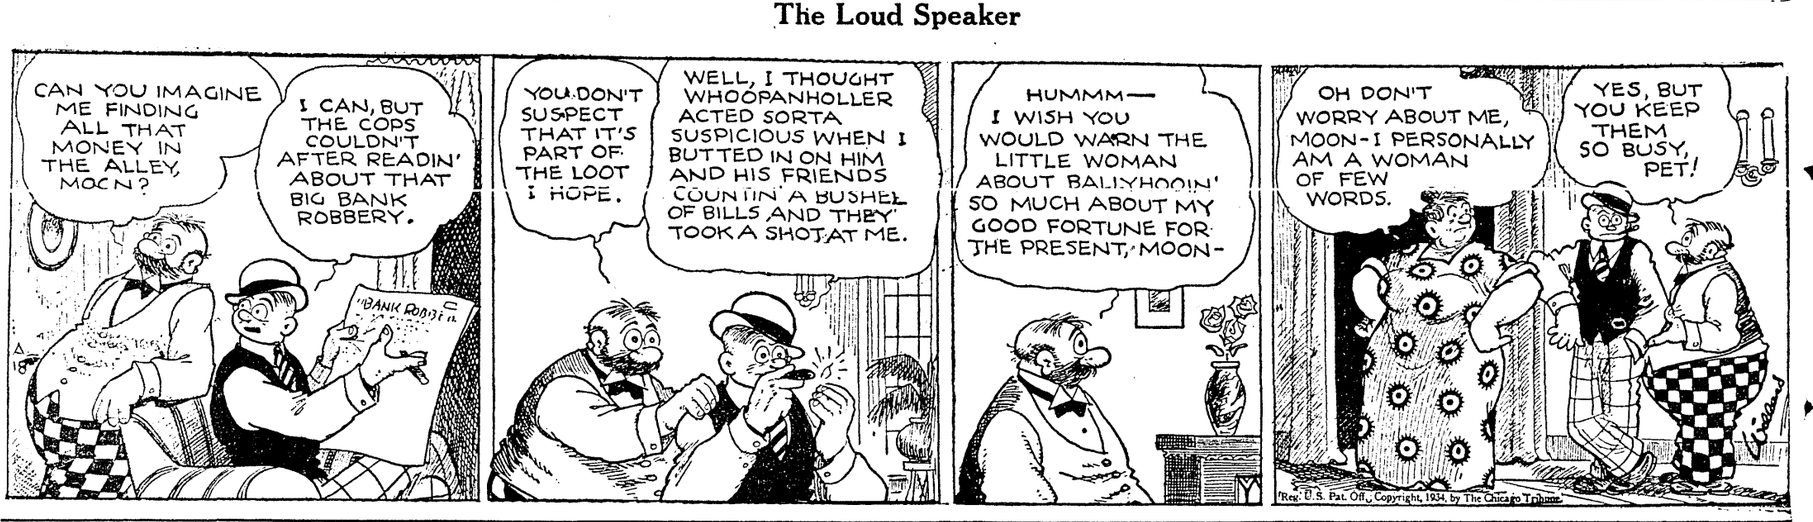
The Loud Speaker



CAN YOU IMAGINE ME FINDING ALL THAT MONEY IN THE ALLEY, MOON?
I CAN, BUT THE COPS COULDN'T AFTER READIN' ABOUT THAT BIG BANK ROBBERY.
BANK ROBBERY
YOU DON'T SUSPECT THAT IT'S PART OF THE LOOT I HOPE.
WELL, I THOUGHT WHOOPANHOLLER ACTED SORTA SUSPICIOUS WHEN I BUTTED IN ON HIM AND HIS FRIENDS COUNTIN' A BUSHEL OF BILLS, AND THEY TOOK A SHOT AT ME.
HUMMM— I WISH YOU WOULD WARN THE LITTLE WOMAN ABOUT BALLYHOOIN' SO MUCH ABOUT MY GOOD FORTUNE FOR THE PRESENT, MOON-
OH DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME, MOON- I PERSONALLY AM A WOMAN OF FEW WORDS.
YES, BUT YOU KEEP THEM SO BUSY, PET!

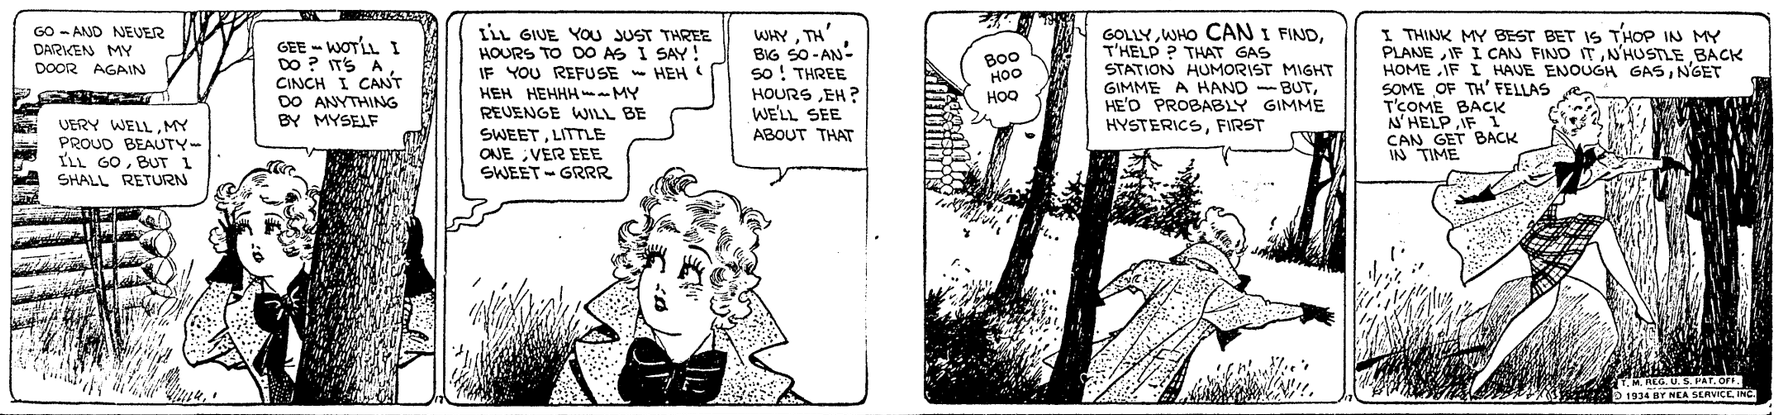
BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES — If—!!!!! — -By Martin



GO- AND NEVER DARKEN MY DOOR AGAIN
VERY WELL, MY PROUD BEAUTY- I'LL GO, BUT I SHALL RETURN
GEE- WOT'LL I DO? IT'S A CINCH I CAN'T DO ANYTHING BY MYSELF
I'LL GIVE YOU JUST THREE HOURS TO DO AS I SAY! IF YOU REFUSE- HEH HEH HEHHH- MY REVENGE WILL BE SWEET, LITTLE ONE, VER EEE SWEET- GRRR
WHY, TH' BIG SO-AN-SO! THREE HOURS, EH? WE'LL SEE ABOUT THAT BOO HOO HOO
GOLLY, WHO CAN I FIND, T'HELP? THAT GAS STATION HUMORIST MIGHT GIMME A HAND— BUT, HE'D PROBABLY GIMME HYSTERICS, FIRST
I THINK MY BEST BET IS T'HOP IN MY PLANE, IF I CAN FIND IT, N'HUSTLE BACK HOME, IF I HAVE ENOUGH GAS, N'GET SOME OF TH' FELLAS T'COME BACK N'HELP, IF I CAN GET BACK IN TIME

As the first shriek of the gorilla's pitiable victim arose, Jean screamed: "They're tearing him to pieces!" She covered her eyes and turned, sickened, from the sight. The shrieking stopped abruptly, and she knew the beast had strangled his first victim and torn him asunder.

In the pit, the gorilla had its way with the native, amid the loud approval of the pygmies gloatingly looking on from above. As the beast finished with its victim, he noticed the other safari up above him, and suddenly flung his lifeless prey aside.

Now he ambled toward the opposite side of the pit. The din of the drums and excited shouts of the pin-head savages became louder and louder as their inhuman pleasure increased. Like the first victim, two more safari boys quickly met their fate in the same manner.

Far away in the jungle, while this scene was being enacted in the pygmies' temple, Tarzan, the Ape Man, sat with his back to a tree-trunk, his face in his hands. Suddenly he sprang alertly erect, listening. A faint screech came to his ears. Soon its cause appeared.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—The stock market felt cheerful, if not jubilant, today and many issues pushed up briskly for gains of 1 to 2 or more points. The preferreds and specialties led the upturn which embraced virtually all groups. Extreme advances were shaded in the last half-hour, but the close was firm. The trading volume expanded to approximately 1,600,000 shares.

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—The upward pace of stocks was accelerated today under the leadership of preferred and specialty issues and numerous gains of 1 to 2 or more points were recorded.

Equities were again inclined to ignore grains, although the latter displayed rallying tendencies. Better business and industrial news, together with brighter Washington prospects, were generally credited with the improvement in sentiment.

Wheat dipped and recovered a bit nervously. Cotton, rubber and silver futures took a step or so forward. A number of bonds again established "new highs." The dollar exhibited strength in foreign exchange markets on the belief that the administration was pointing to the "right."

Shares of National Lead spurted 8 points and Crucible Steel preferred jumped 7. Preferred stocks, up 1 to around 2, included Postal Telegraph, Republic Steel, Armour of Illinois, Gillette, Budd Manufacturing, Radio, U. S. Rubber, Mullins Manufacturing, Commonwealth & Southern and International Power & Paper. U. S. Smelting, American Telephone, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Liggett and Myers B advanced about 2 each. Such stocks as U. S. Steel, Western Union, American Can, Case, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, Auburn, Schenley and Consolidated Gas were up around a point. Mohawk Carpet and California Packing were in demand at a point or more advance.

While speculative ardor for silver was somewhat cooled, the fact that the silver bloc in Washington will confer with the chief executive tomorrow gave rise to hopes that administrative opposition to legislation at this session favoring the metal might be softened.

The exchange control bill still was considered a highly important market factor. Although the president has not publicly expressed his views of the amendments which have been made in the measure, brokerage circles were pleased with word from the capital that he was open-minded regarding some of the alterations.

JAPAN WILL USE FORCE FOR PEACE

Government Spokesman Gives Nippon's East Asia Position

TOKYO, April 18.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today that Japan is prepared to meet force with force, if necessary, to preserve peace in east Asia.

Of course, he said, in discussing Japan's restated China policy, Nippon will be guided in the application of her policy of responsibility for tranquility in east Asia by the circumstances.

But "Japan herself may be compelled to resort to force," the spokesman added, if foreign efforts to "disturb peace in east Asia" are supported forcefully.

In this connection, he made plain that Japan—and Japan alone—will determine whether foreign efforts to help China really imperil peace. He said flatly:

"It is our responsibility. We must be the judges."

He declined to say whether he referred to such matters as the United States wheat and cotton loan to China and the activities of American aviators selling planes and training Chinese fliers.

There was a flurry of excitement among foreign diplomats after the revelation yesterday of the draft of the "restatement and clarification" of Japan's policy toward China. It is in the hands of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota for final approval. Soon it will be transmitted to Washington and other capitals to form a basis for explanations.

REVIVAL ENDS FRIDAY NIGHT

Rev. Huff, Revivalist, Announces Program For Rest Of Week

With his audiences reported larger each day, Rev. John A. Huff, pastor of the First Baptist church of New Orleans, who is conducting revival services at the First Baptist church of West Monroe, has announced his complete program for the remainder of his stay here.

Reverend Huff will complete his services in West Monroe Friday night and return to his church at New Orleans.

The subject of tonight's service, which begins at 7:30 o'clock, will be "The Greatest Drama in Human History."

"The Beloved Disciple" will be the Thursday morning topic, while the evening topic will be "Is There a Future Life?"

Friday morning's subject will be "Called to Be Saints." "If Christ Is Not Risen, What Then?" will be the concluding sermon Friday night.

The West Monroe church is having one of the greatest spiritual awakenings to be experienced among its members in a long while, it was said Wednesday. One of the largest assemblages ever in the church was present at the Wednesday morning service.

Honolulu D. A. R. Flags Labeled 'Made In Japan'

HONOLULU, April 18.—(AP)—As a reminder of their allegiance to the United States the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution presents to each naturalized alien, most of whom are Japanese, a small American flag.

A newspaper article recently called attention to the fact that on the staff of these flags is printed: "Made in Japan." Mrs. Grace Noble, regent, explained that suitable flags of American manufacture were unavailable locally.

MONROE IS GIVEN SHARE OF HONORS

Many Elected To Head Statewide Organizations Since 1928

Since the recent election of Dr. C. P. Gray of Monroe as president of the Louisiana State Medical society, making the second time within 40 years that Northeast Louisiana has been thus honored and the first time such an honor has been accorded to Ouachita parish, attention has been called to the large number of Ouachita parish residents who have been elected to head statewide organizations within the last few years.

Apparently this parish began receiving the most important share of such honors about 1928, although prior to that time, of course, some citizens of the parish had held statewide offices. Since then there has hardly been a time that some Monroe man or woman has not been at the head of some state organization.

At the beginning of this six-year period, W. H. Anders was elected district governor of Lions, the district embracing all of the state of Louisiana. The following year L. P. Abernathy was named to succeed Mr. Anders as state head of the Lions. It was also in 1929 that C. E. McKenzie was elected state commander of the American Legion.

In 1930 D. Aubrey Haas was named district governor of Rotary and in the same year J. E. Doughtie was elected governor of the Kiwanis district, which includes Louisiana and Mississippi.

A. B. Clarkson served as district governor of Lions during the last half of 193i and the first half of 1932, being replaced by Edward Everett, Jr., of Farmerville, who will hold that office until the state convention in Monroe in May.

In 1932 Jack Hayes, principal of Ouachita parish high school, was elected president of the Louisiana State Teachers' association.

For the last two years Mrs. Frederick Williamson has served as president of the State Library association. She will preside at the convention to be held this week in Baton Rouge.

Last year Mrs. Louis Hullum served as president of the State Music association and was re-elected last week for a second term. In 1927 and 1928 Mrs. C. M. Mitchell served as department commander of the American Legion auxiliary and in 1929 and 1930 C. M. Mitchell served as chef de gare of the Forty and Eight. Dr. R. L. Wood has served for the last year as president of the Louisiana State Dental society.

In addition there have been a large number of others who have held lesser offices in statewide organizations.

'Summerizing' Service Advised For Car Owners

DALLAS, April 18.—(Special)—With the advent of hot weather, increasing numbers of motor vehicle owners are finding it profitable to safeguard their cars and assure carefree operation with Magnolia "Summer-ize" service, J. M. Marnan, chief engineer for Magnolia's technical department, reports. "Summer-ize" is a coined word describing the seven-point protective service provided only by stations and dealers of the Magnolia Petroleum company.

"Thinner, quick-flowing winter lubricants should be changed to heavier grades of Lubrite or Mobiloil lubricants capable of resisting the high temperatures generated under summer heat in the crankcase, differential, transmission and other vital parts of a motor vehicle. "Summer-ize" provides a complete service made up of seven distinct operations, worked out by Magnolia automotive engineers as those most necessary to protect a motor vehicle against the high temperatures of summer driving."

Real Estate Transfers

One real estate transfer was recorded Tuesday at the clerk of court's office in the parish courthouse as follows:

Mrs. Allice C. Wallace to S. John Williams, an undivided one-twentieth interest in the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter, the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter, and the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 13, township 18 north, range 2 east, and the west half of the northwest quarter of section 18, township 18 north, range 3 east. Consideration was $50.

Wife Was Fat

No Longer Attractive

LostHusband'sLove

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health—and gain in energy and activity?

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 mineral salts most helpful to body health Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask Collens Pharmacy, Inc., 200 DeSiard St. Phone 71 & 72. The Rexall Store: Collens Five Point Pharmacy, 601 DeSiard St., Phone 17: Collens & Thompson Co., Inc., Frances Hotel. Phone 110; or any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today.

It's the SAFE way to reduce but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first and remember this if you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. Mail orders filled promptly. (Adv.)
